Junior Miss Contest New Cotton Carnival Event

The 25th annual Cotton Carnival will open Monday for a six-day stand with a program of entertainment each night.

One new attraction is a Junior Miss Sikeston contest. She will be crowned Thursday at 9 p.m. by State Senator Albert M. Spradling Jr., of Cape Girardeau.

On the grounds at the American Legion Park, will be a state highway patrol exhibit, featuring highway safety, a weapons display, radar, aircraft surviellance, and training academy records. According to Col. E. L. (Mike) Hockaday, Jefferson City superintendent of Missouri highway patrol, the display will acquaint the public with law enforcement and promote traffic safety.

Bands to furnish nightly music will be Marvin Arsta and his Country Music Jamboree, The Absolutes, The 86-Proof Band, The Country Gentlemen; and the Run Awaya, featuring Iren Enke.

On Wednesday at 7 p.m. little King and Queen Cotton Top will be crowned by Circuit Judge Marshall Craig.

Immediately after the parade Saturday morning, Miss Sue Robinson of Dexter will crown the new Miss Cotton Carnival.

Twenty young women will compete for this title. Contestants will be from schools in the area other than from Sikeston.

The young women selected as queens will receive a dozen red roses and trophies presented by each of the three Sikeston banks. First and second runnerups will also receive a trophy. A $25 savings bond will be presented to each queen.

The Carnival parade will be Saturday at 10 a.m., with American Legion commander post Pete Britt, in charge. At 11:30 a.m. Saturday will be the crowning of Miss Cotton Carnival Queen by Congressman Bill D. Burlison, of Cape Girardeau.

Defense Spending Up, Up and Away

WASHINGTON (AP) — The half months after the declaration of war against Germany. The cost of fighting this country's first major overseas war peaked two years later at a little over $11 Billion.

Then the boys came home from over there and defense outlays plummeted more than 80 per cent in the first full year after the Armistice. By fiscal year 1926, the Army and Navy departments were permitted to spend only $676.8 million, very little more than their bill for the first part- year of War 1.

Defense spending did not stop the billion mark again until 1936. That was just 71 years after the Federal government's first $1 billion plus military bill -- in the last year of the Civil War.

Military costs stayed within the $1 billion plus range until fiscal year 1941, when they jumped to $6.252 billion, then vaulted to over $80 billion in the last full year of fighting.

History began repeating itself even before Japan surrendered in August, 1945. In that year the military bill dropped nearly 50 per cent, and by 1948 it was less than one- seventh of the high mark of World War 2.

The Korean War started just as the government wound up an accounting year showing military outlays of $13.4 billion. Military costs eased down less than 10 per cent during the first year of the truce line armistice.

That year broke the historical pattern. Pentagon spending did drop to the $35 billion level in 1955 and 1966, but except for dips in 1960 and 1965 -- the fiscal year before large scale involvement started in Vietnam -- the military bill has mounted until it reached the $77.8 billion mark for the 12 months ended June 30.

A wade through the Statistical Abstract of the United States -- the government's bible of facts and figures -- shows radical changes in accounting methods through the years that can distort comparisons. Recent efforts to apply current budget concepts to the bookeeping of past years can put defense spending in a somewhat different light.

Military outlays amounted to about three- fourths of total Federal spending in the World War 2 peak year. They dropped to little more than 32 per cent in the year before Korea, rose to around 70 per cent during the three years of that war, then tapered off to around 50 per cent 10 years ago.

Despite ascending military bills since then, the defense slice of total Federal outlays has actually shrunk, to just under 43 cents of the government spending dollar in the year through last June.

November-December Draft Calls Canceled

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon today canceled all November and December draft calls and ordered that the 29,000 men scheduled for induction in October be called over a three- month period at a monthly average of less than 10,000 men.

Reading a statement to newsmen at the White House, Nixon said lessened military manpower requirements - due in part to Vietna, troop withdrawals - made it possible to cancel programmed draft calls for 32,000 men in November and 18,000 in December.

The action came very close to an outright two- month suspension of the draft. However, Nixon said that the 29,000 men originally slated for induction in October would be called over a three- month period ending Dec. 31.

The President also announced that if Congress fails to act on the draft reform legislation he proposed on May 13, he would issue an executive order aimed at sharply reducing the number of years during which young men face the uncertainity of possible induction. He said, however, that no executive order could accomplish his objectives "as clearly and effectively" as the proposed legislation.

Nixon had promised, at the National Governor's Conference in Colorado Springs, Colo., recently: "We shall have some directives that will be issued in the very near future that will accomplish" some of the goals concerning what he called "the unnecessarily long period of uncertainty that now hangs over the lives of millions of our young people."

There had been much speculation but no certain information about the direction Nixon planned to take in accomplishing this goal.

Earlier this week, White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler acknowledged that outright suspension of the draft for at least a month or longer had been under discussion. However, administration sources said later such a move was not under consideration for the immediate future.

Factors pointing toward lower draft calls included the promised cutback of at least 60,000 men in the Vietnam fighting force between July 8 and Dec. 15 plus a general anti-inflation economy directive from the White House ordering a reduction in defense spending—to be accomplished in part by deactivation of military units and ships. The spending cutback would, in turn, lessen military manpower needs.

Arena Says He Saw No Blood

EDGARTOWN, Mass. (AP) — Police Chief Dominick J. Arena says he saw no blood on Mary Jo Kopechne's body when it was removed from Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's submerged car last July 19.

Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis declared Thursday he had information that there was blood in her mouth and nostrils and on her clothing. He raised the question whether this was "consistent with death by drowning."

Arena, who was present when a skin diver recovered the body, said: "When she was in my arms, waiting to put her on the boat, I saw no indication of blood."

Dr. Donald R. Mills, medical examiner for the district, who certified the cause of death as drowning, declined to comment on the Dinis statement.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
A COLORFUL SEASON

Autumn means different things to different people, but, for all of us, autumn comes this year on September 22. To some, it ushers in the excitement of football, others look forward to the hunting season, still others journey to the mountains to view the red, gold and yellow autumn colors that no artist can quiet catch in all their glory. There are still other people, especially on ranches and farms, to whom autumn means the conclusion of harvesting and planting. In the cities, autumn brings a freshness and a new life -- the opening of another theatre season. Each of the seasons has its attractions, and autumn has its full share. So whether you are a nature lover, theatre goer, football fan or just a plain stay - at - home who enjoys the smell of the cool fall air, there is something in autumn for you.

In fact we recommend that she be given target practice under the guidance of the Highway Patrol or the National Guard.

Surely the rifle range in the Armory could be made available.

We further suggest that the prowler be shot and questioned later if he is alive.

WALK A HIGH ROAD

It is good to walk fields and woodlands in any season of the year. There are those who know the deep content of walking in the rain or when snow is falling softly on a blurred countryside. A man needs to get away from the beehieves of activity. To savor the full joy of walking, one should be alone or with an understanding friend who does not feel it necessary to talk all the time.

September is a time to walk a quiet country road that climbs from the valley and meanders along a hillside slope or winds around a low mountain shoulder. If one has a favorite road, walk it three times in the ninth month. It is good to follow it as the first colors begin to show on the maples, birches and beeches; walk it again at the height of September beauty; and then go over the route after the leaves have fallen and autumn peace broods on the hills and the lowlands.

A quiet country road away from the hard arteries of concrete and macadam is a sanctuary in a harried world. Chipmunks scurry along the walks; flickers flash white rumps; chickadees chant unhurried alto songs. Fences and walk through the woodland tell of the farms of yesteryear. Brush-filled cellar holes are poignant memorials to men and women who dreamed dreams as a nation grew in stature.

On a hillside height on a mellow day, it is good to sit on a boulder and look to blue-green mountains across the valley. Peace hovers like a benediction and the heart has a chance to recharge a drained battery. Low roads are an essential part of daily living, but there are times when a man should take the high road and get a perspective from a height.

HOME TO REST

A recent editorial in The McDowell News, Marion, North Carolina, describing the return of a local serviceman killed in Vietnam brought to mind the return of the five Manchester, New Hampshire, men killed in the same no-win war.

In the case of the soldier from Marion, we repeat the pay homage to their heroes with the mixed sorrow and pride which can only be aroused by those who give their lives for their nation. There was a massing of the colors, a full honor guard and full military funeral. The bereavement of the families will in future years be tempered to a small degree by the memory of the tribute paid to their men.

In the case of the Manchester men, the town turned out to words of an associate of the family of the man, reprinted in The News.

"Kim came home last week. Kim is our own personal link with the war in Vietnam.

"It was both a sad and a happy occasion.

"Kim is a soldier, fighting in Vietnam, and had come home to escort the body of his wife's first cousin.

"The body was flown in by plane, Kim along with it, of course. Kim's family was at the airport to meet him and his sad burden.

"Sallie, Kim's sister, tells me that the plane landed and all the passengers got off. The body was unloaded on the other side of the plane, away from the gate, and was taken through a side gate under wraps .,. . in the most unobtrusive manner.

"Kim had the flag with which to drape the casket - but there was no opportunity to drape it.

"I feel this is not a fitting way to honor our Vietnam dead upon their homecoming. I feel that the passengers should have been held and that the casket should have been unloaded in full view of the waiting crowd, draped in the flag of the country for which he died, and that the loudspeaker should have announced that this /was the body of one of our fighting dead arriving home.

"To me this would have been a more fitting tribute than the one he received. Certainly it would bring the war more vividly home to some of those who seem hardly to know that one is going on, and that in it the young men of this nation are fighting and dying."

The more we consider the proposal the more sense it makes. How often during the day do we pause to give thought to those men of ours? No matter how much time it is, it isn't enough.

THE CARE THAT KILLS

The following is an excellent candidate for Quote of the Year:

"It's time we give up the idea that we know best what other people should do, and give some consideration to what is actually best for them"

The source is Dr. Margaret Bruckner, director of social research at the Benjamin Rose Institute of Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland, reporting the results of an unusual study of the effect of nursing home care on the aged.

One group of aged or mentally incompetent people in Cleveland, without close friends or relatives, was given intensive social agency services. Most of them were placed in institutions, where "they'd be better off."

A control group of oldsters received the hap-hazard and "inadequate" help normally available to the aged.

By the end of the third year of the study, 53 per cent of the first group had died, compared to 35 per cent of the control group.

The attrition rate was particularly marked among males. By the end of the fourth year, 72 per cent of the men receiving intensive care had died as against 42 per cent of the control group.

Nursing home care for the aged can actually be a form of enthenasia, says Dr. Bruckner. And, ironically, the better the nursing home, the higher the death rate.

One explanation is that old people, who may be nfirm but who are still independent -minded, cantankerous individuals, are simply overwhelmed by the supervision they get in an efficient nursing home.

"Social workers, like doctors, have become institution - oriented," she says. "They have more control over the patient in a nursing home and feel more comfortable in that situation."

They are also sensitive to well- meaning pressures from the community to do what is "best" for the abandoned elderly, and this, in the popular view, means institutionalizing them. But as this study shows, removing old people from familiar surroundings and subjecting them to the stress of a new invironment can do more harm than good.

It does not follow that we may now with clear consciences begin to neglect the aged, the incapacitated, the destitute, the unemployable in our society. Rather, we should stop neglecting the human element in such situations.

Beyond that, the Cleveland study calls into question the current belief that all that is required to solve our social problems is "intensive care" in the form of a lot of money and a lot of grandiose programs, the kind of reasoning that begins, "Any country that can put a man on the moon..."

Putting a man on his feet is immensely more difficult. Doing the same for a group, a city, an entire nation is infinitely more complex.

NEW YORK (AP) — Flattery may get you nowhere, but double talk can often get you anywhere in the social game.

Double talk, of course, is the art of saying one thing while thinking another. It enables one to go on for years, if necessary, without saying a thing he means or meaning a thing he says.

For the uninitiated, here are a few samples of double talk, followed in each case by what the person who spoke was actually thinking:

"Gee, Joe, I never saw you looking better. Why don't you get out of that bed and give it to someone who's really sick?"—Boy, he sure looks like a goner. He'll never walk out of this hospital.

"I'm in a tough spot, and as you're one of my oldest friends, I've come to you for advice."—After you lend me the $500 I really need, then I'll listen to your advice.

"You mean you wallpapered this entire room all by yourself?"—It looks like you'd been helped by a herd of thumb-fumbling elephants.

"After all, it isn't the value of a present that counts, it's the sentiment behind it."—After all, it's the value of a present that counts.

"Let me congratulate you, Harry, it certainly was a welldeserved promotion."—But I was the one who deserved it, you bum.

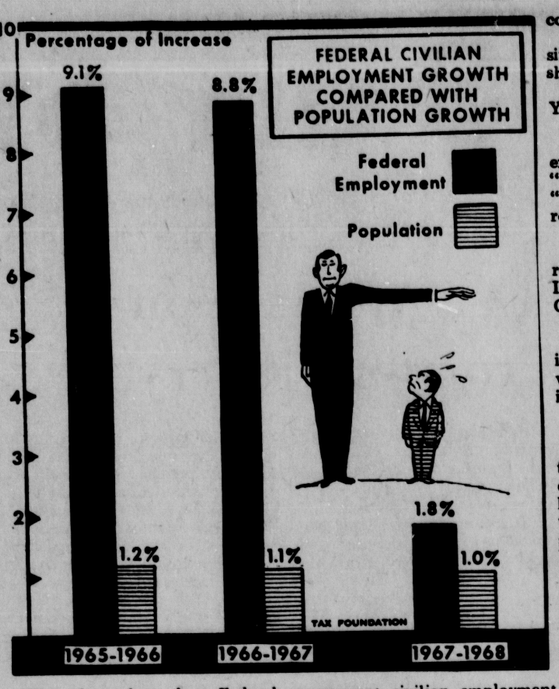

"Why Myrtle, after all these years we've been together, you certainly must know the reason I married you."—I was slow on my feet.

"Yeah, it's a real thrill to come back to these college reunions and remember all the fun we had here during those times that still seem like they were only yesterday.—What the hell is this guy's name anyway?

"Young man, you wouldn't try to take a taxicab from a tired old woman on a rainy day, would you?"—If you even reach for that door handle, Buster, I'll put the point of this umbrella right through your ribs.

"My wife insisted that I come to this exhibition of your modern paintings, and I must say they show real depth and feeling."—Did you spread the paint on with a butter knife, or shoot it at the canvas with a shotgun?

"Anytime I can do anything for you, just call on me."—And call...and call...and call...until you're hoarse.

H.L. Hunt Says

CUBA IS STILL RED —

Republic USA will be permanently lost or reserved for the foreseeable future by reason of actions taken by the nation's leaders in the next few months. Irresponsible planners of policy entrenched from positions in the CIA, State and Defense Departments have guided us into precarious positions in Vietnam, the Middle East and Cuba.

While we react sometimes to communist aggression, little or no thought is given to liberation of enslaved peoples. It was freely said of Adm. Raborn, who was the personal choice of the President to head the CIA, following his successes in Indonesia and Africa, "Raborn is on his way out." The example of Raborn's success in the ousting of Sukarno can be duplicated in Cuba.

The stake of international chess is life or death for freedom. Cuba is ripe for a return to constitutional government provided our mistaken planners are not permitted to perpetuate their past errors. In the fields of international intrigue we are woefully inadequate. Many secondary positions not subject to presidential appointment are held by persons uninterested in saving freedom or by those dedicated to our losing it. The problem of Cuba needs immediate attention if only from a purely humanitarian point of view to releasing the enslaved Cubans.

Our own nation's destiny may well depend on elimination of a Soviet base 90 miles from our shores. Our enemies already have missiles aimed at the very heart of the USA while operating from a sanctuary for further subversion of Latin America. Experts rate the USA as fourth in ability to accomplish its aims. Until the nation's planners become first we can expect more failures and fewer victories. HLH

Washington - Merry Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--Among the briefing papers of the U.S. negotiators in Paris is a stark, 10-page document, entitled "Communist Terror Tactics in Vietnam," which casts a shadow over the truce talks and restrains the Americans from making careless concessions.

It presents a sober, documented account of communist purges in the North and assassinations in the south--a dark reminder of what could be expected if the Communists should ever take over South Vietnam.

"Does it necessarily follow that a communist victory in South Vietnam would lead to mass arrests and wholesale executions?" This grim question is raised by the document. "Such a prediction can only be based on the past performance and present policies of the Communist Party. From the 1945 'August Revolution' purges through the 1968 Hue massacre and beyond, the record is not very reassuring."

Captured enemy documents bring in daily confirmation that it is still communist policy to eliminate opposition by systematic assassination. Some captured instructions even assign assassination quotas and scold execution squads that fall behind in their murdering.

The victims, of course, are called "cruel tyrants" and "enemies of the people." However, they include women and children whose only crime is being related to government officials or sympathizers.

The document prepared for the U.S. Truce Team charges that the Communists since 1945 have made "a very considerable effort throughout Vietnam to eliminate any actual or potential opposition through arrests and political murder."

--MASSACRES IN NORTH--

The communist takeover in the North was followed by large scale executions, which reached massacre proportions during the 1951-56 period. Communist vengeance was first wreaked upon the landowners, but this was broadened in 1953 into a reign of terror known euphemistically as the "Political Struggle."

In many ways, it resembled the "cultural revolution" that has convulsed communist China. Instead of using red guards, however, the North Vietnamese party "enlisted the lowest elements of society to torture and murder under the motto 'Give the masses a free hand to fight the reactionaries.' This wave of terror spared no class or group, and even party members fell victim to it....

"An immediate result of this action," the document notes wryly, "was a greatly increased willingness to 'volunteer' for 'citizen-labor' and to pay taxes promptly. Also a substantial part of the population became implicated in these executions, thereby removing the sole onus from the party and government. The main effect, however, was to condition the rural population for the next step, the land reform."

The North Vietnamese have put out a lot of rosy propaganda about their land redistribution. They leave unmentioned the death that accompanied it.

DECLARES THE DOCUMENT: "In the implementation of this program, a norm of at least one death sentence per village was set for the first stage and was raised to five per village in the following stage. Since statistics on the number of victims of the over-all land reform campaign were never made public, estimates vary widely from 10,000 to 500,000.

"The actual figure probably lies between 100,000 and 200,000, not including the considerable number who committed suicide to avoid mass trials or who starved to death as a result of the enforced isolation of those victims, with their families, who were not permitted to leave their homes for months at a time during the campaign. By the time the land reform campaign ended in 1956, virtually the entire population was in mourning ...

"There is no way of telling how many people subsequently fell victim to the ever-tightening police controls that were systematically fastened on North Vietnam."

The mass bloodletting in the North was accompanied by more refined slaughter in the South.

--ALL ENEMIES ELIMINATED--

"Since the late 1950's," alleges the document, "the political terror tactics in the South have resulted in thousands of civilians being killed and tens of thousands wounded or abducted....these actions have, however, usually not been indiscriminate. They have been designed to eliminate officials, teachers, revolutionary development cadre and others who represent the government. Or they have been designed to discourage the population, both rural and urban, from cooperating with the government....

"The TET offensive of 1968 might well, the party believed, have resulted in a communist victory had the anticipated general uprising in the cities materialized. In anticipation of seizing power, the party reverted to some of the purge tactics it had used in 1945 and 1946 to eliminate or neutralize the opposition leadership....

"The temporary occupation, in February 1968, of a large part of the old imperial capital, Hue, provided the world with a grim foretaste of what a total communist occupation of South Vietnam might well produce. Despite the intense fighting in the city, cadre equipped with lists of names and addresses on clipboards went about arresting and executing Vietnamese and foreigners who were of significance in the community.

"Often their wives and children were executed with them. In all, approximately 3,000 civilian men, women and children were executed in the Hue area. Some were beheaded and a number were buried alive after hasty executions. The victims were mainly the police, political leaders, provincial and local civil servants, anybody who worked for the Americans, and anybody who was known for his opposition to the Viet Cong.

"The Hue Massacre and other similar actions would indicate that (The Communists) still believe truong Chinh's Dictum: 'For a new-born revolutionary power to be lenient with counter-revolutionaries is tantamount to committing suicide.'"

SIZZLING SEVENTIES:
Blacks' Siege of Construction Fronts Launches Drive For Well Paying Jobs in All Industries

By VICTOR RIESEL

WASHINGTON, D.C.:--It looks like a long hot winter--and a hotter decade right through the searing '70s. Those who see this not will make 1970 the year of the ostrich.

A tiny spark of this heat to come was set off in a wastepaper basket when leaders of the Pittsburgh Black Construction Coalition burned a building and construction trades union offer last Monday on the seventh floor of the agitated town's City-County Building--and attorney Byrd Brown, community NAACP leader, warned that there would no longer be any peaceful demonstrations to force unions to open their books to black workers.

Mr. Brown is a fine orator and may have been more rhetorical than threatening. But the fact is, that neither the public nor the Congress appears aware that the black drive on the construction front is the black thrust of the coming decade.

Direct action in Pittsburgh, Chicago and Seattle are but the first offensives, of black leaders who have won the laws--civil rights, open housing, integration education equality and voting rights. Now they want the jobs, the economics to go with the laws.

One of President Nixon's aides, who is right up front trying to "cool it," dryly points out that the government will spend over a trillion dollars remodeling the cities during the '70s. This will make 10 million new jobs. Black workers want one million of these--20,000 in each state. Government jobs are union jobs. So the black workers want "In" on the high-wage craft unions.

The construction front is the first front because it's the visible front. But the drive will spill over into every corner of business, industry and commerce.

The battle of the '70s comes with the model cities program because the local swimming pool (as in Seattle), the local skyscraper (as in Pittsburgh), the local university building (as in Chicago) is right there, right in sight, right within walking or marching distance of the old slums. So the long march is on--and the government will be on the side of the marchers, the protesters, the demonstrators.

And so it may come to pass in big cities that $75-$100 million worth of construction, new housing, urban renewal may be halted.

Ironically enough, the test of tempers, the mood of the challengers and the beseiged will come on Sept. 24. On that day in Chicago, a three-man federal committee will open hearings in the -- of all places -- Lincoln - Douglas room of Chicago's Hotel La Salle. Labor leaders, contractors and black coalitionists have been invited to come and reason together. Black leaders want thousands of jobs immediately -- meaning thousands of memberships in the craft unions. The union chiefs say there just is no room for such new workers and there must be apprenticeship training. The black leaders say that white directors of apprenticeship training will try to make those courses the biggest "drop-out program in history."

Most likely the government will impose the "Philadelphia Plan" which calls for specific quotas of black, Puerto Rican and other minority workers on each job -- fixed quota, set in advance.

And also on Sept. 24, in Atlantic City, N. J., building and construction leaders will issue their white paper during their national convention. It will not be belligerent. It will not be racist. It will state, in effect, that there has been a loose use of statistics by the black leaders, the government and the media.

The document will say in a muted fashion what AFL-CIO president George Meany has said of extreme black militants -- that they want the issue and not the reform. It is labor's position that black workers are not being kept out of the building and construction unions. They assert that there are over two million black AFL-CIO members -- and that hundreds of thousands of them are in the construction field. And the lowest paid construction rate is $4 an hour. There are over 200,000 black workers in the Laborers' International Union (AFL-CIO) -- averaging $5 an hour.

The union chiefs declare that the government is not dealing honestly with them in the coinage of statistics. They charge that the press and the federal people persist in referring to the three or four highest paid crafts -- such as the electrical, plumbing and pipefitting and sheet metal fields were skilled workers who can read blueprints and needed "in this day of moon shots, atomic energy plants and 100-story skyscrapers."

This, say they, means long training in apprenticeship schools. The black leaders retort that this is not the standard for whites -- that there are "at least nine ways to get into a union, many of them with no such training."

The union leaders say that black workers have not been kept out and that "in Philadelphia, for example, some 30 to 40 per cent of construction union members are black. Most of them are in the laborers union but even if we exclude these, there are over 12 per cent in the other unions though the government charges there are only 1.6 per cent."

So goes the shadow-boxing of statistics -- leaving the black community impatient.

"The construction trades front is coming up hot because of proximity to the black ghettos where it can be seen," said one government official now right in the vortex center. "But it will pour over, this fight will, into the invisible areas -- the professions, the hospitals, the executive suites in the '70s. The black people have the laws. Now they want the jobs. This is the theme of the '70s. They're looking to us for help. They trust the government. They'll get this assistance."

It does look like the '70 will sizzle.

Should The Guests Pay The Price of the Cake

Dear Ann Landers: If you think you've heard everything, dig this: "Over the weekend my husband and I attended a wedding. The ceremony was held in a church. It was simple but quite spiritual, the way a wedding ought to be. Following the ceremony the guests were invited to the reception in the church social hall. Sandwiches, cookies, fruit punch and hot coffee were set out on a nicely decorated table. On a separate table was a cash register (manned by two relatives) and the wedding cake with a large sign which read, "Buy a piece of wedding cake for luck. Help finance the honeymoon. Price 24 cents."

Several guests lined up and bought a piece of cake. Even though I love cake I refused to allow my husband to buy me a piece, as a matter of principle. He bought a piece for himself, however, "as a gesture of good will." His reasoning was, "When in Rome do as the Romans do."

We both would like to know what you think of this.--Minneapolis Query

Dear Q.: Minneapolis isn't Rome. What's more my husband and I have attended several weddings in Minneapolis and we never had to buy cake. In my opinion that cake sale was a tasteless move.

Dear Ann Landers: This is for "Wet Hankie" and for all the other criers in the world who are embarrassed because they are unable to control their emotions. Take the advice of a girl who learned the hard way: Cry, cry, cry! It's good for you.

I am 17 and I very nearly had a nervous breakdown because I was afraid to show any signs of "weakness." My father is a career Army officer--well-meaning but very strict and spartan in his approach to everything and everybody. My mother survived a German concentration camp. That inhuman experience made her a real stoic. I was taught that it was a disgrace to let anyone see the soft side of me.

Until I was 15 I managed to keep everything bottled up. Then all of a sudden I began to fall to pieces. I became frightened of things I couldn't explain or understand. My hands shook for no reason. My heart pounded and I was sure I was having a heart attack. My palms perspired and I had dizzy spells. It was my biology teacher who put me in touch with the help I needed. And it was just in time. The doctor said I had a small ulcer and was heading for a nervous breakdown.

I hope Wet Hankie listens to you. And I hope all the criers out there will stop being ashamed. Tell them, again and again to keep crying. It's good for them. If you know what Sholom means, use it for my signature.--San Jose

Dear Sholom: Yes, I know what it means. Peace. And it's wonderful.

Dear Ann Landers: What do you mean "a good cigar?" There is no such thing. All cigars stink. It's just that some cigars stink worse than others. People count on you for the truth. Why don't you quit being so polite and tell it like it is? --Fresh Air Fiend

Dear Fiend: You did and I thank you.

What awaits you on the other side of the marriage veil? How can you be sure your marriage will work? Read Ann Lander's booklet "Marriage--What To Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

The Gospel Visitor

By: REEDUS M. BAUGHER

We continue our theme: "Dealing With The Lost." In this lesson we will deal with backsliders. There are backsliders, who are careless and have no desire to come back to Christ, such, needs to be told that they are just as lost as they were before they were saved. As far as their condition, it is worse, said Peter. (2 Peter 2:20-23) Regardless of the teaching, "once saved always saved," the scriptures teach otherwise. It is possible for saved people to sin so as to be lost. The Corinthians were saved, but, became guilty of many sins later, and were taught to cleanse themselves of such. (2 Cor. 7:1; 1 Cor. 3:1-4) The Hebrew writer tells of some who so sin as, to count the blood of Christ by which they were sanctified, "An unholy thing, and do despite to the Spirit of grace." (Heb. 10: 27-29) There are many other scriptures that could be used to show that we can sin, even though saved, and be lost eternally.

I believe the word "Backslide" though used to describe God's people, the Jews, who left Him, can be used to adequately describe His people who leave Him under the New Testament. The word means, to go backwards. To cease to grow is to began to die, this is a physical law, when our bodies reach maturity, they began to die. This process is usually so gradual that it takes years to be noticed, nonetheless when we quit going forward, we go backward. Even though this is true of nature, it doesn't have to be true of our Spiritual nature. Paul said, "But though our outward man perish, yet the inward man is renewed day by day." (2 Cor. 4:16).

When Israel left God, the prophet Jeremiah wrote: "Hath a nation changed their gods, which are yet no gods? But my people have changed their glory for that which doth not profit." (Jer. 2:11) Jeremiah points out, in verses 10 and 11 of this chapter, that Israels neighbors were more firm and faithful to their false gods than they were to the true God. Their honor for their gods was such, that though they were gods of wood and stone, they would not change them for gods of silver and gold, no, not even for the living and true God. He is not praising the nations in this, but, is pointed out to the reproach of Israel, that they, who were the only people who had no cause to change their God, were yet the only people who had changed Him. Little wonder he says in verse 12, "Be astonished, O ye heavens, at this, and be horribly afraid, be ye very desolate, saith the Lord." They committed two evils in this, (vs. 13) "Forsook the fountain of living waters, and hewed out cisters, broken cisters that can hold no water. We are told, "Take heed, lest there be in any of you an evil heart of unbelief, in departing from the living God." (Heb. 3:12) If we make an idol of any creature – wealth, pleasure, or honor, we shall find it a cistern, which we take a great deal of pain to hew out and fill, yet in time of need will not suffice. Let us cleave to the Lord, he has the words of eternal life. (Acts 11:23).

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Tiny Tim, the entertainer with the shoulder length hair, the falsetto voice and the ukulele, is planning to marry a 17-year-old New Jersey girl.

He made the announcement after an appearance Wednesday at the New Jersey State Fair. His fiancee, Vicki Budinger, who graduated from high school this year, said, "We have been engaged for some time."

The couple met in Philadelphia in June when Miss Budinger obtained his autograph on his book "Beautiful Thoughts."

On a television talk show in July, Tim said he had been so moved by meeting someone he called "Miss Vicki" that he shed a tear and put it in an envelope he carries in his ukulele.

Tiny Tim, whose real name is Hubert Kauhry, is the son of a Lebanese father and a Jewish mother and was raised in New York. He is believed to be in his 40's.

Women Taking The Reins Again

By HUGH MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

PARIS (AP) — The wives of four U.S. Air Force pilots missing in North Vietnam clung today to the slim hope of a North Vietnamese promise to let them know whether they are "wives or widows."

The women, from the Dallas, Tex., area, gained the promise from a two-hour meeting with members of the North Vietnamese delegation to the Paris peace talks Wednesday.

They heard their husbands described as "war pirates" and "war criminals" and saw pictures of wounded civilians and wrecked buildings, allegedly the results of U.S. bombing raids. They were asked to denounce U.S. participation in the war when they returned home.

"We did not wish to argue or to offend them, but to seek information," said the wives' spokesman, Bonnie Singleton.

And they gained a promise from Xuan Danh, a North Vietnamese official, that he would contact Hanoi and write each of them, after they return to Texas, of the fate of their husbands.

Mrs. Singleton and her companions, Joy Jeffrey, Sandy McElhanon and Paula Hartness, also were promised that letters they gave to the North Vietnamese would be sent to Hanoi for delivery—if their husbands are alive.

The North Vietnamese also said that anyone would be welcome to their delegation headquarters in Paris providing they came as individuals and were not sponsored by the U.S. government. Mrs. Singleton said there was no indication, however, that Hanoi would release a list of U.S. prisoners.

The women arrived Sunday to make the personal appeal. They had only two questions to ask, they said: "Are our husbands alive, and if so, in what condition are they?"

9-Game Schedule Tonight

Perryville's East Prairie's and Poplar Bluff's defenses face big tests tonight after holding their opponents scoreless last week. A nine- game schedule is set tonight.

On the otherhand, Malden and Cape will have their potent offenses tried again after running for 42 and 30 points respectively last week.

Also to be determined tonight will be a leader in the Northern Division standings as Perryville, Sikeston, Kennett and Poplar Bluff pair up in Division matches.

Chaffee and Gideon could be gunned down from the top perch of their respective Southern and Bootheel Division Standings. All this makes for an exciting night around the district.

OVER-EMPLOYED

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Faced with accusations that Indians hold a disproportionate number of United Nations jobs, the foreign ministry here made a study that shows that India is not the only over-represented nation in the international body.

Fifteen other countries have also exceeded their allotted job quotas, the study found.

They are Ethiopia, Ghana, Nigeria, United Arab Republic, Ceylon, Indonesia, Pakistan, Philippines, Thailand, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Chile, Colombia, Ecuador and Syria, according to the study.

The coutndown continues toward the league titles and state playoffs as the second Friday evening of high school football will get underway tonight with nine games scheduled and six of those in division play.

As we move into tonight's action our prognosication record stands at 10 of 11, missing on the Sikeston match with Mayfield, Ky. last week.

Looking at tonight's schedule it seems our job won't be any easier with the league encounters set nd the matches of non-league rivals.

Without any further comment, here's the way we see tonight's outcome:

CAPE CENTRAL AT BLYTHEVILLE, ARK. - This should prove a worth while venture for the Tigers, who we figure to come out of this battle with no less than a victory and added points toward a state playoff berth. Cape 35 Blytheville 14.

HAYTI AT CARUTHERSVILLE — Rivalry is the name of this match. It's always hard to call a winner when these two neighbors meet and this game should be little different.

Generally the host end up with the win, but we'll go against that tonight and say... Hayti 21, Caruthersville 6.

CHAFFEE AT EAST PRAIRIE — A loss here could drop the Red Devils out of first place, while a win for the Eagles could put them at top. What incinative these two schools have toward this victory. Both come into the game with opening game wins, Chaffee having beat defending co-champs Portageville last week while the Eagles shutout Bootheel power... Illmo-Scott City. Our call is... Chaffee 21, East Prairie 13.

CAIRO, ILL. AT CHARLESTON —The Pilots come to Missouri for their season ingaural after having missed last week's scheduled opener because of the death of its star quarterback. Charleston had little trouble with tonight's visitors at Cairo last season and should expect little tonight. Charleston 14, Cairo 7.

DEXTER AT PORTAGEVILLE --- Here's our upset call for the evening. The Bearcats got off to a good start last week while the Bulldogs had their troubles, but we see a fired up hosting crew and a win for them. Portageville 21, Dexter 20.

ILLMO — SCOTT CITY AT GIDEON --- The Bootheel Division title could be riding on this game. Gideon has a league win already this season and another mark here could assuryit of at least a share of the honor. We see Gideon 14, Illmo- Scott City 7.

MALDEN AT JACKSON --- Don Clayton might not get 30 again, but 24 would be all is needed to keep the Indians in the defeat column. Clayton ... Malden 25, Jackson 21.

KENNETT AT POPLAR Bluff --- The Mules stingy defense should add another zero to its credit tonight, thus leaving the game up to its offense while will power downfield for a ... 35-0 win.

PERRYVILLE AT SIKESTON -- With the injury problems the Bulldogs have, it seems almost a sure bet the Dogs will remain in the loss column... unless the defense can pep up and pull it out... we'll say. Sikeston 14, Perryville 0.

Indiana has the potential, Penn State has a puzzle, and Southern California has a problem as most of the nation's major college football teams open the 1969 season Saturday.

Indiana's power-packed Hoosiers, most everyone's choice to represent the Big Ten in the Rose Bowl this year since Ohio State cannot repeat for the trip, plays at Kentucky in their curtain-raiser.

Penn State, ranked No. 2 in the nation last year, faces "an unknown quantity" in Navy, according to Coach Joe Paterno.

And Southern California, which lost to top-ranked Ohio State in the Rose Bowl last year, meets Nebraska with the possibility that No. 1 quarterback Jimmy Jones will be on the shelf.

Kentucky will be eager fo successful start under new coach John Ray, formerly with Notre Dame. But it appears that the hot shot Hoosiers have too much power with the passing of Harry Gonso and running of John Isenbarger and Jade Butcher.

Paterno says Penn State's game with Navy is the most difficult opener he's faced.

"We know so little about Navy," said Paterno. "They have a new coach, new system and new staff. They're an unknown quantity."

The Middies, who meet Penn State at Annapolis, Md., are under the guidance of Rick Forzano, former coach of Connecticut and an assistant with the Cincinnati Bengals of the American Football League.

Coach John McKay of Southern California says that Jones, a highly touted sophomore has been troubled the past several days with muscle spasms in his back and may not play at all.

McKay said a final decision will not be made until game time. With two other candidates ailing, the job may fall to the No. 4 quarterback, Greg Briner, another sophomore.

"There's no sense in taking a chance with Jones," said McKay. "His future is too bright."

Ohio State is the only team in the Big Ten delaying its start until next week. The Buckeyes make their season debut at home against Texas Christian University on Sept. 27.

Other top games Saturc find Northwestern at Notre Dame; Purdue at TCU, Washington State at Illinois. Oregon State at Iowa; Vanderbilt at Michigan; Washington at Michigan State; Oklahoma at Wisconsin; Texas at California and Iowa State at Syracuse.

Also Oklahoma State at Arkansas; Houston at Florida; SMU ,at Georgia Tech; North Carolina at North Carolina State; Alabama at Virginia Tech and these night games, Texas A&M at LSU: Pitt at UCLA; Kansas State at Baylor and Kansas at Texas Tech.

Notre Dame, which lost quarterback Terry Hanratty to graduation, plans to stick more to the ground than usual and rely on the power running of fullback Jeff Zimmerman and halfbacks Denny Allan and Ed Ziegler. Joe Theismann, a scrambling quarterback, will direct the offense.

Cards, Cowboys List Disabled

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Coach Charley Winner of the St. Louis football Cardinals could lowscore Coach Tom Landry of Dallas in a count of the teams' disabled lists, but the Big Red and the Cowboys will be playing a different sort of game in the Cotton Bowl Sunday.

Winner's No. 2 quarterback, Jim Hart, is still nursing a sore finger, but will be available to back up starter Charley Johnson, and running back McArthur Lane is lame with a knee injury.

Landry's problems are: quarterback Craig Morton out with a finger injury, running back Dan Reeves recovering from knee surgery, pass receiver Bob Hayes out with a shoulder separation.

Landry will fill a couple of the gaps with rookies, 1963 Heisman Trophy winner Roger Staubach of Navy at quarterback and Calvin Hill of Yale at running back. Dennis Homan, a second-year pro, will fill in for Hayes.

In back of ex-sailor Staubach is rookie Bob Belden, Terry Hanratty's understudy at Notre Dame.

Both teams enter Sunday's fray with 4-2 exhibition records.

St. Louis has not beaten Dallas since 1965, losing 27-10 in St. Louis last year.

Farm Boys Add Punch

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A kid recently brought up from the farm was the fair-haired boy of the St. Louis Cardinals clubhouse today. Rookie Ted Simmons swatted a two-out single in the ninth inning Thursday to give the Redbirds an 8-7 comeback victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The switch-hitting catcher, who walked up to the plate after Lou Brock and Vada Pinson had struck out, hit his single to right field, scoring Curt Flood.

Simmons, all-star catcher for the Cards' Tulsa farm club this past season, was mobbed by Cardinals in front of the dugout.

But Simmons had to share the limelight with a couple of other recent callups, Joe Hague and Sal Campisi. They figured, along with veterans Pinson and Flood, rather significantly in the Cardinal victory.

Pinson launched a three-run Cardinal third inning with a double that scored Flood, who had walked. Then Hague, who played briefly for the Cardinals last year and early this season, hit a home run into the right field seats.

Then came a rude shock, a seven-run Pirate blitzkreig in the seventh inning highlighted by Jose Pagan's two-run homer, his eighth.

With loser Joe Gibbon (4-1) on the mound for Pittsburgh, the Cardinals scored three times to move within one run of the Pirates in the last of the seventh.

Vic Davanon doubled to left center and Flood singled him across the plate. Then came Pinson's homer, the 2,000th hit of his career.

Rookie reliever Campisi (1-0), the winner, came on in the eighth and although he walked four, he held the Pirates hitless through the remaining two innings.

Two singles and Joe Torre's groundout tied the score and Simmons finally wrapped it up.

The Cardinals hit the road today for eight games, opening a series with the Chicago Cubs.

Missouri's other two independents also open their seasons. Lincoln University is at Arkansas AM&N Saturday afternoon, while Missouri Southern goes to Goodwell, Okla., to play Panhandle AM in a night game.

All MCAU teams are in action besides William Jewell. CulverStockton is at home against Iowa Wesleyan, Tarkio hosts Dana, Neb., Missouri Valley entertains College of Emporia, Central Methodist is home against Kansas Wesleyan and Graceland is host to Baker University of Kansas.

Missouri Valley grabbed the early MCAU lead with a 14-0 win over Central Methodist in last week's opener. Non-conference games last Saturday saw William Jewell whip Hastings, Neb., 24-7, Culver edge Concordia, Neb., 12-8, Tarkio blank Peru, Neb., 27-0, and Graceland bow to William Penn, 31-0.

Missouri Southern was slugged 57-7 by Northeastern Oklahoma.

We don't have to start from scratch each year.

We've been making the same basic VW for so long now, you'd think we'd be bored with the whole thing.

But the fact is, we're still learning.

For no matter how perfect we think one year's model is, there's always an engineer who wants to make it more perfect.

You see, at the Volkswagen factory we spend 100% of our time making our car work better and 0% making it look better.

Any change is an improvement.

And when we do make new parts we try to make them fit older models. So there's nothing to stop a Volkswagen from running forever.

(Which may explain why Volkswagens are worth so much at trade-in time.)

Starting from scratch each year can get in the way of all that.

Just when they've ironed out the kinks in the current model, they have to face the kinks in the next.

We'll never understand all the hoopla over the "big changes" for next year's models.

Weren't they proud of this year's?

Carpenter Asks More Spending On Sea Research

RETURNING to the teaching profession after a nine year retirement is Mrs. Nita Byrne, left. Mrs. Jane Griffin, right, has joined the Charleston system.

ATCHISON, Kan. (AP)—Former astronaut Scott Carpenter said Wednesday night the government should spend more money for research in the ocean depths.

"The value of the lunar surface lies in scientific knowledge, not in raw materials, the former Navy commander said. "On the other hand, we have an area much closer that we know is rich in raw materials, and that is the continental shelf."

"The total area of the continental shelf in the world is equal to that of the continent of Africa. We have this giant area just waiting to be explored."

Carpenter flew Aurora 7, the second U.S. manned orbital flight, in the Mercury series, and since that time has devoted most of his time to sea exploration, having once spent 30 days on the ocean floor.

Carpenter appeared at St. Benedict's College as part of an annual lecture series.

Burns Asks for Straight Nerve Gas Test Reply

HONOLULU (AP) — Gov. John Burns says he wants to know whether the U.S. Army did or didn't test nerve gas in 1966 and 1967 on the slopes of Mauna Loa.

The governor said he cabled Army Secretary Stanley R. Resor Wednesday asking for clarification of reports involving apparently conflicting answers from the Army itself.

"I'm not accusing the Army of duplicity," Burns said, "but I am greatly concerned over reports that nerve gas tests were conducted."

Burns said he would await Resor's answer before recommending possible action by the state Land Board, which could cancel the balance of the Army's five-year lease on a 1,144-acre test site on the side of Hawaii's second-tallest volcano.

The lease, expiring in January 1971, stipulated that the land would be used "as a site to conduct classified meteorological and related tests."

Rep. Patsy I. Mink, D-Hawaii, said Tuesday the Army had acknowledged in a letter to her that it had used the site for testing the nerve agent GB and the incapacitating agent BZ a total of four times in 1966-67.

On July 31, in a written response to the Honolulu Star-Bulletin's question whether it had ever tested "either chemical or biological warfare weapons in Hawaii" the Army said:

"No, the Army has not tested either chemical or biological weapons in Hawaii. The Army has conducted limited chemical tests under strict safety precautions to obtain defense department information."

Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, said the Defense Department had assured him a month previously nerve gases were not being tested in his state.

Burns commented: "I'm aware the Army must conduct experiments to insure the security of the nation. But my first concern is the welfare of the citizens of this state."

The Army's test site, in a jungle area, is 14 miles from Hilo, a city of 27,000.

Trio Charged With Theft

MALDEN - Burglary and larceny charges have been filed against three - two Malden teenagers and a parolee from Holcomb - for the September ninth break-in of the Malden Tri-County Trade School.

Prosecuting Attorney Franklin D. Holder filed charges yesterday in the office of the Dunklin County Magistrate Court against Andy Cruz Garcia, 18, of Malden; Dennis Wesley Swift, 22, of Holcomb; and Vernon D. Crowe, 17, of Malden.

The trio was charged with the break-in and burglary of the school, were $25 in coins were taken earlier this month. The trade school was vandalized on September 9, and officials estimated approximately $2,000 worth of damages to the school.

No vandalism charges have been filed against the three to date, the prosecutor's office said today.

Charges of leaving the scene of an accident are presently pending against Garcia. His case is set for trial November 5 on that charge. Swift is on parole from the Missouri Penitentiary on a two-year sentence. He was sentenced in July, 1968 for uttering.

Tons of Bombs From W.W. II To Be Disarmed

HONIARA, British Solomons (AP) — A British Army demolition expert has arrived in the British Solomons to get rid of American wartime bombs and bullets at Hell's Point, near Honiara township.

Warrant Officer C. J McKiernan of the Royal Army Ordinance Corps is expected to spend two years at Hell's Point and two other wartime ammunition dumps.

Hell's Point has been fenced off since 1945 for safety reasons. Despite accidental explosions and fires which have destroyed much of the dump since then, officials believe thousands of tons of high explosive remain in the 270-acre safety reserve.

In 1942-43, American troops dumped 15,000 tons of explosives and ammunition there. In 1953 the Australian Army removed 1,000 tons, but a great deal remains.

In 1967 the British Army got rid of 12,000 rounds of shells and mortar bombs from between Hell's Point and the wartime Henderson Airfield, but it will be Warrant Officer McKiernan's job to clean up the remainder.

Honduras relies heavily on bananas. Plantations along the nation's hot Caribbean coast account for 60 per cent of its foreign trade.

Dear Sir:

I am writing in regards to the letter from Rev. T. A. McDonough which was printed in your Monday edition of the Standard and also your apology of the one bad joke in Saturday's paper. I want to say I agree one hundred per cent with everything that Rev. McDonough had to say. He was writing his thought from a pastor's view point. I am wiriting mine as a parent. I am and have been since moving to Sikeston three years ago very shocked and embarrassed at the "so called jokes" in your paper on the back side of page one. I did not read the one you apologized for as I have learned not to read that page as a rule for I don't want to corrupt my mind with such filth. I will not allow my children to buy such literature from the magazine racks in the stores and then to think the only daily newspaper in our town prints the same kind of immoral rubbish. I really haven't words to describe my feelings along this line but I pray God will convict whoever is in charge of the printing of this page and from now on there will be nothing but clean reading which I would not be embarrassed to have my children read.

There are plenty of good clean and character building jokes and writings to be printed that would help our young people be better men and women of our community.

You may publish this letter if you wish for I am not ashamed of where I stand on the subject.

Your subscriber,
Mrs. Kenneth Hull.

Dear Mr. Blanton,

I say hurrah for Pastor T. A. McDonough. I am glad someone had enough Christian concern with the Spirit of Christ in his heart to challenge you in regards to your smutty jokes printed in your daily Sikeston Standard. You do want people to read your paper don't you? Did you know them jokes are of the Devil, and just what he likes for you to print. I'm one hundred per cent with Bro. McDonough.

So please, think on these things I think it would please our Heavenly Father.

Sincerely,
Mrs. David Klingel

YOU CAN'T BEAT AN ACE

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Here's a golfing oddity.

Dr. Grady Morrow holed out his second shot on a par-3, 175-yard hole from a sand trap. But, he still lost the hole.

University of Texas at El Paso head football coach Bobby Dobbs, one of the foursome, shot a hole-in-one on the same No. 7 hole at Coronado Country Club. It was his first ace.

Another member, Jim Morrow, had a three on the hole, and the fourth player, James Nace, had a four.

The scorecard showed a 1-2-3-4 for the hole.

Arbyrd Marshal Suffers Burns

ARBYRD - Emerson Thompson, 64, city marshal of Arbyrd, suffered first and second degree burns and a fractured vertebrae in an explosion at 9:30 a.m. Monday. He was taken to Dunklin County Memorial Hospital in Kennett.

Mrs. Thompson said this morning that her husband was burning weeds behind the City Hall when the accident occurred. Apparently the line of the propane weed burner Thompson was using to burn weeds, which a mower couldn't reach, stopped up. He beat on the line and gas started flowing freely. When he attempted to light the burner with some matches, the gas exploded. Witnesses said Thompson was thrown three to four feet into the air.

Thompson's shirt caught fire but he was able to extinguish the flame by rolling over on the ground.

Nova has smaller cars squirming principally because it doesn't make you squirm.

The not-too-small Nova Coupe seats five adults. Sedan, six.

And you get windows instead of portholes. A bona fide trunk. And a wide-stance ride on a 111" wheelbase.

Further, you have a happy choice of six engines and five transmissions (including low-cost, no-clutch Torque-Drive).

And Nova is anything but dowdy. See above.

Certainly, little cars have to be more than a little uneasy about Nova's easy price.

It simply doesn't cost that much more to own that much more car.

SENATOR EAGLETON REPORTS

Washington, D. C. – A proposed 2% tax on the sale of news and feature articles prepared in the District of Columbia was killed yesterday by unanimous vote of the Fiscal Affairs subcommittee of the Senate District committee, Senator Thomas F. Eagleton (D-Mo.), subcommittee chairman, announced today.

Senator Eagleton and Senator William B. Spong, Jr. (D-Va.) had announced their opposition to the tax in an open subcommittee hearing recently.

"It raises serious constitutional questions and would set a precedent posing grave danger to freedom of the press in this nation," they said today.

Yesterday, in an executive session of the subcommittee which ranged over the full 1970 District of Columbia revenue bill, Eagleton and Spong were joined by the third subcommittee member, Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R-Md.) in voting to kill the 2% news tax.

Eagleton and Spong expressed sympathy with the financial needs of the district and poedged to try to raise in some other way the revenue that would have been raised by the news tax.

The 2% news tax, as contained in the District revenue bill passed by the House August 11, would have been levied on "the sale of or charges for the service of preparing, providing, or supplying photographs, comic strips, special feature articles, feature articles, new items, or any similar material intended for use in newspapers, magazines, periodicals, circulars, radio, television, or any other means of publication."

"The District government said this tax would only have applied to Washington users of news and feature articles produced here," Eagleton and Spong said.

"The language of the bill failed to specify this. And even if the tax were so applied, it would still be unacceptable in principle.

"The power to tax is the power to destroy. This would set a new tax precedent which, once established, would give the government power to tax, among others, syndicated columnists and the writers of interpretive articles. This could lead, if taken to its worst possible conclusion, to the taxing of certain writers out of existence.

"It would have been the only such tax in the United States, and obviously would have raised constitutional questions about the roles of government and a free press. At its best, it still would have been a burden on the free flow of information."

Eagleton and Spong noted that the news tax section of the District revenue bill passed the House without comment and critized the District government for having failed to give this provision of the bill the same elaboration in hearings that its witnesses gave other portions of the revenue bill.

Eagleton said the Fiscal Affairs subcommittee would meet again soon in executive session to decide on other sections of the full revenue bill.

Mrs. Ralph William Heineman Jr.

Brown-Heineman

Miss Susan Hunter Brown became the bride of Ralph William Heineman Jr., in an evening ceremony at the United Methodist church, Charleston, on Aug. 23. The Rev. Robert Burke, an uncle to the bride, performed the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Charles Allen Cook, organist, accompanied Mrs. Herbert Marshall, who sang "Calm is the Night," "Entreat Me Not to Leave Me" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Brown Jr., Charleston, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph William Heineman, St. Louis.

The bride wore a floor length gown, Victorian style, of white silk organza over taffeta. The empire waist was accented with a belt of pink atin. The high neck, long sleeves with tight- fitting cuffs, and train had inserts of pink satin ribbon covered with white Venise lace. Her veil of imported English silk illusion was attached to a band of white and pink silk organza flowers accented with pink satin ribbon bows.

Honored guests were Mrs. E. T. Burke, grandmother of the bride, and Mrs. Elsie Heineman and Mrs. Ann Tobin, grandmothers of the groom.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Bruce (Barbara Gaines) Whitaker, Memphis, Tenn. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Charles Semas, Dallas, Tex.; Miss Tricia Bruck, Columbia; Miss Jeanne Ann Winchester, Galveston, Tex., and Miss Kay Walton, sikeston. Junior bridesmaid was Miss Sarah Brown, sister of the bride.

SENATOR EAGLETON REPORTS

Washington, D. C. – A proposed 2% tax on the sale of news and feature articles prepared in the District of Columbia was killed yesterday by unanimous vote of the Fiscal Affairs subcommittee of the Senate District committee, Senator Thomas F. Eagleton (D-Mo.), subcommittee chairman, announced today.

Senator Eagleton and Senator William B. Spong, Jr. (D-Va.) had announced their opposition to the tax in an open subcommittee hearing recently.

"It raises serious constitutional questions and would set a precedent posing grave danger to freedom of the press in this nation," they said today.

Yesterday, in an executive session of the subcommittee which ranged over the full 1970 District of Columbia revenue bill, Eagleton and Spong were joined by the third subcommittee member, Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R-Md.) in voting to kill the 2% news tax.

Eagleton and Spong expressed sympathy with the financial needs of the district and poedged to try to raise in some other way the revenue that would have been raised by the news tax.

The 2% news tax, as contained in the District revenue bill passed by the House August 11, would have been levied on "the sale of or charges for the service of preparing, providing, or supplying photographs, comic strips, special feature articles, feature articles, new items, or any similar material intended for use in newspapers, magazines, periodicals, circulars, radio, television, or any other means of publication."

"The District government said this tax would only have applied to Washington users of news and feature articles produced here," Eagleton and Spong said.

"The language of the bill failed to specify this. And even if the tax were so applied, it would still be unacceptable in principle.

"The power to tax is the power to destroy. This would set a new tax precedent which, once established, would give the government power to tax, among others, syndicated columnists and the writers of interpretive articles. This could lead, if taken to its worst possible conclusion, to the taxing of certain writers out of existence.

"It would have been the only such tax in the United States, and obviously would have raised constitutional questions about the roles of government and a free press. At its best, it still would have been a burden on the free flow of information."

Eagleton and Spong noted that the news tax section of the District revenue bill passed the House without comment and critized the District government for having failed to give this provision of the bill the same elaboration in hearings that its witnesses gave other portions of the revenue bill.

Eagleton said the Fiscal Affairs subcommittee would meet again soon in executive session to decide on other sections of the full revenue bill.

SALE TIME 10 O'CLOCK - SELLING ON PREMISES
Reason For Selling- Have Moved To Mayfield, Ky.
This fine farm, located on black top Highway 703, 6 miles east of Clinton, Ky., consists of 276 acres, with 250 acres cleared land. The farm has 66 acre feed grain base, and is presently in corn and soyabeans, which will be retained by the present renters.
Here is a fine farm that has always been well cared for by Mr. Amos F. Ward, who took a pride in always supplying every thing that land needed, such as taking care of all erosion, drains and fills and sparing no expense to see that the job was well done -- and this fine farm is certainly a credit to Mr. Ward's desire to keep his land in tip top condition, and this farm will produce a top crop of anything grown in this entire area - year after year.
The farm has one house, located on school bus and mail routes and is centrally located to the industries of Wickliffe, Ky. on the north, Mayfield, Ky. on thy east, Fulton, Ky. and Union City, Tenn. on the south, and Hickman, Ky. on the west.
We feel real sure tha any Real Estate will continue to increase in value in this thriving area. Clinton, Ky., County Seat of Hickman County, is a thriving city of wide awake businesses of all kinds, a good market for all farm products, one of the live stock counties of Southwest Kentucky, fine school, new post office, 2 strong, friendly banks, automobile dealerships, farm implement dealers, modern feed mills, hospital, large super markets, lumber dealers, all types of businesses and the church of your choice. We feel sure you will enjoy owning a fine farm near Clinton, Ky., and living among the fine, friendly people of Hickman County.
Our decision to sell this farm, since we have moved away, will certainly be your opportunity to purcahse one of the real fine farms of this entire area and you and your friends are cordially invited to come and look over this farm any time before day of sale.
It could be that a few hours spent here looking over this farm might pay you big dividends in the months and as that lie ahead.
For any additional information please contact Mrs. Nola M. Hull, owner, phone 247-2557, Mayfield, Ky., or Keith Akin, Realtor, phone 653-4168, Clinton, Ky., or B. N. LeDuke and Son, Auctioneers and Real Estate Brokers, phone 253-6526 or 253-7646, Tiptonville, Tennessee.
Possession of the farm will be given Jan. 1, 1970. Taxes will be paid through December 31, 1969. Purchaser will be required to pay 10% of the purchase price on day of sale. There is now a fair loan on this farm which can be transferred to the purchaser of this farm.

COLUMBIA - The School of Library and Informational Science at the University of Missouri-Columbia is now accredited by the American Library Association.

Dr. Ralph H. Parker, dean of the School, noted in making the announcement that the school -- having graduated only one class previous to this year -- is receiving accreditation in the minimum possible time. It is now among 42 U. S. and five Canadian schools accredited by the ALA.

The School was founded here in 1966, absorbing a department of library science founded in the College of Arts and Science in 1950 and granting only a bachelor of arts degree. The master of arts degree in library science was initiated in 1967 Twenty-one received degrees in 1968; 35 in 1969. Since accreditation is retroactive for one year, the accreditation applies to all graduates of this School.

Basis for ALA accreditation, Dr. Parker explains, includes quality of faculty and of general education in the university; criteria for admission of library students, library resources, financial support, quarters and equipment for the school. A site visitation team interviewed UMC faculty, University officials, and library students, checking student credentials and records; visited classes of every library teacher and looked over courses and syllabi.

Graduation from an accredited school is required by many libraries, by some states for certification, Dr. Parker says, and brings a higher U. S. Civil Service rating.

In the School of Library and Informational Science here, Dr. Parker points out, "we consider any source of information in the domain of the library. We believe form should not be the basis for artificial fragmentation of information materials."

The School attempts to prepare students for the expected greater specialization of future libraries. Ten or more will be added to the present staff of eight to support the many special areas in the library field offered here.

Illegal Acts Do Not Forge Partnership

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Marvin was the victim of a blisskrieg. After meeting Helen, he couldn't sleep, eat or evn think about betting on the horses, which was his favorite pastime. In fact, he finally packed his bags, left his wife and set up housekeeping with his Helen-of-Joy. And as security for Helen's future, he promised her that she would be his equal partner in any business transactions that he might become engaged in from then on.

Thereafter, Marvin, in effect, kept rolling sevens. Every deal he made proved a winner and he accumulated a relative fortune. One relative he didn't count on, however, was his wife. When he died, she claimed his entire estate as his widow.

"She may be his widow," Helen protested in court, "but I was his partner. Half of everything he had belongs to me. That was our agreement."

"Huh!" was the widow's response. "While their type of partnership might have entitled her to dishpan hands, that's all it entitled her to. She wasn't Marvin's partner. What she was, was obvious to everyone. A shady lady!"

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you recognize Helen as Marvin's partner so as to entitle her to half of his assets?

This is how the judge ruled: No! The judge held that to have a partnership, each party must contribute something to the partnership. In this case, concluded the judge, Helen's only possible contribution was her living with Marvin illegally. And an illegal contribution is no contribution. (Based upon a 1965 Florida District Court of Appeals Decision)

College Boy Prefers to Live in Tent

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — David Hoover is one University of Michigan student who's not worried about the campus housing shortage.

He's planning to camp out in the woods near Ann Arbor all winter.

The 18-year-old freshman told university housing officials he finds "more security in the woods than in an apartment," adding, "I really like to live with the weather."

Hoover, a lean 5-foot-10, has four tents with an overhead tarpaulin connecting them. The tents are clustered around a fire pit. He may experiment with various types of mechanical heaters when the winter snows arrive.

In anticipation of a blustery winter, he brought snowshoes with him.

Hoover's campsite, set up last week, is in a dense woods a quarter of a mile from the nearest point to which a car or bicycle can drive.

"I just hope a lot of other students don't get the idea," said Hoover, whose father is an Illinois assistant attorney general. "People would say I was starting a new kind of hippie movement."

He rejected several offers of potential campsites nearer to his classes. "This feels like home," he said. "I don't believe the cold could drive me in. I'll move into town if I think my grades are suffering."

The Prayer from The Upper Room

The Spirit helps us in our weakness; for we do not know how to pray as we ought, but the Spirit himself intercedes for us with sighs too deep for words. (Romans 8:26, RSV)

PRAYER: Father, it is a real privilege that we can talk to Thee. Help us this day to keep close contact with the Holy Spirit as He speaks to us. May our intimacy be real as we devote time to prayer and communion with Thee. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Enrollment for 1968-69 was 73 graduate students, with 47 fulltime.

Price-Setting Time Running Out on Chrysler

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp., hit by dwindling profits and sales, is up to bat in the 1970 car pricing game.

Unlike last year when it was the first to release price increases, and then had to roll them back, Chrysler has waited until General Motors Corp., and Ford Motor Co. announced their price hikes. Chrysler must move within the next few days, since new models go on sale Tuesday.

There are strong indications that Chrysler is ready to keep its prices down to strengthen its position.

GM, whose cars go on sale today, announced an average retail price hike of $125 per car, while Ford placed its at $108. Ford's 1970 cars go on sale Friday.

American Motors begins new model sales next Thursday. American traditionally does not announce its prices until a day or two before the sales begin and presumably will look at its three competitors' lists before finalizing prices.

Among the four U.S. automakers, Chrysler's domestic share of the market so far this year is 17 per cent, compared to 18 per cent a year ago. Ford's market share increased from 26.9 per cent in 1968 to 27.5 per cent this year.

General Motors also increased its market share during the year from 51.9 per cent to 52.4 per cent. American Motors share was about 3 per cent both years.

Industry sales as a whole are off from a year earlier and only Ford has registered a slight gain, thanks to high sales of the Maverick, which didn't exist in 1968. The 1970 Maverick will remain priced at $1,995.

Last year's GM price increase was $52, Ford $50 and Chrysler $55 after a rollback from $89 to compete with its rivals.

Chrysler reported a drop in profits of 51 per cent for the first six months of 1969 compared to the same period in 1968.

Task Force Sets Up Post-Apollo Program

WASHINGTON (AP) - The White House disclosed Wednesday presidential task force recommendation that the United States embark on a post-Apollo space program featuring shuttle rockets to space, an orbiting space platform and putting a man on Mars early in the 1980s.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, speaking for himself and three other members of the special group, said peak spending for the program advocated by the panel would reach about $8 billion a year as the Mars landing approached.

The task force proposed three programs to Nixon.

One would defer any effort to put men on Mars until after 1990 and another would place emphasis on further moon pioneering with the result that any effort to reach Mars would be put off until the mid-1980s.

Third Cairo Official Quits

CAIRO, Ill. (AP) — Racially tense Cairo lost its third top official Thursday with the resignation of W. C. Spomer as corporation counsel.

Spomer said he offered his resignation "because I was appointed by Mayor Stenzel—who I think did a good job— and I thought his successor should have the right to appoint his own attorney."

Stenzel and Police Chief William Petersen resigned Monday.

The city is facing a lawsuit filed in federal court in Danville by the United Front, a black organization. Spomer said a St. Louis law firm was expected to represent the city.

Defense Spending Up, Up and Away

WASHINGTON (AP) — The half months after the declaration of war against Germany. The swift soaring price of fighting wars is nothing new in the nation's experience. What is new in the Vietnam era is the height of the plateau from which defense spending zoomed to the current annual rate of $77 billion.

Today's American dollar isn't worth what it was when Vietnam started becoming a big little war, and the coin of the realm buys far less than it did a half century ago, the year the United States entered World War I.

But the hard -- and to many the disturbing fact is that the historical pattern of meat- axing military budgets after earlier conflicts just did not happen after the war in Korea.

Military spending totaled nearly $617.58 million in he government's account year through June, 1917, two and a half months after the declaration of war against Germany. The cost of fighting this country's first major overseas war peaked two years later at a little over $11 Billion.

Then the boys came home from over there and defense outlays plummeted more than 80 per cent in the first full year after the Armistice. By fiscal year 1926, the Army and Navy departments were permitted to spend only $676.8 million, very little more than their bill for the first part- year of War 1.

Defense spending did not stop the billion mark again until 1936. That was just 71 years after the Federal government's first $1 billion plus military bill -- in the last year of the Civil War.

Military costs stayed within the $1 billion plus range until fiscal year 1941, when they jumped to $6.252 billion, then vaulted to over $80 billion in the last full year of fighting.

History began repeating itself even before Japan surrendered in August, 1945. In that year the military bill dropped nearly 50 per cent, and by 1948 it was less than one- seventh of the high mark of World War 2.

The Korean War started just as the government wound up an accounting year showing military outlays of $13.4 billion. Military costs eased down less than 10 per cent during the first year of the truce line armistice.

That year broke the historical pattern. Pentagon spending did drop to the $35 billion level in 1955 and 1966, but except for dips in 1960 and 1965 -- the fiscal year before large scale involvement started in Vietnam -- the military bill has mounted until it reached the $77.8 billion mark for the 12 months ended June 30.

A wade through the Statistical Abstract of the United States -- the government's bible of facts and figures -- shows radical changes in accounting methods through the years that can distort comparisons. Recent efforts to apply current budget concepts to the bookeeping of past years can put defense spending in a somewhat different light.

Military outlays amounted to about three- fourths of total Federal spending in the World War 2 peak year. They dropped to little more than 32 per cent in the year before Korea, rose to around 70 per cent during the three years of that war, then tapered off to around 50 per cent 10 years ago.

Despite ascending military bills since then, the defense slice of total Federal outlays has actually shrunk, to just under 43 cents of the government spending dollar in the year through last June.

YOUR HIGHWAY PATROL, a 50- foot mobile unit that tells a story on highway safety will be at the Cotton Carnival. An officer of the highway patrol will answer questions on law enforcement.

November-December Draft Calls Canceled

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon today canceled all November and December draft calls and ordered that the 29,000 men scheduled for induction in October be called over a three- month period at a monthly average of less than 10,000 men.

Reading a statement to newsmen at the White House, Nixon said lessened military manpower requirements - due in part to Vietna, troop withdrawals - made it possible to cancel programmed draft calls for 32,000 men in November and 18,000 in December.

The action came very close to an outright two- month suspension of the draft. However, Nixon said that the 29,000 men originally slated for induction in October would be called over a three- month period ending Dec. 31.

The President also announced that if Congress fails to act on the draft reform legislation he proposed on May 13, he would issue an executive order aimed at sharply reducing the number of years during which young men face the uncertainty of possible induction. He said, however, that no executive order could accomplish his objectives "as clearly and effectively" as the proposed legislation.

Nixon had promised, at the National Governor's Conference in Colorado Springs, Colo., recently: "We shall have some directives that will be issued in the very near future that will accomplish" some of the goals concerning what he called "the unnecessarily long period of uncertainty that now hangs over the lives of millions of our young people."

There had been much speculation but no certain information about the direction Nixon planned to take in accomplishing this goal.

Earlier this week, White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler acknowledged that outright suspension of the draft for at least a month or longer had been under discussion. However, administration sources said later such a move was not under consideration for the immediate future.

Factors pointing toward lower draft calls included the promised cutback of at least 60,000 men in the Vietnam fighting force between July 8 and Dec. 15 plus a general anti-inflation economy directive from the White House ordering a reduction in defense spending—to be accomplished in part by deactivation of military units and ships. The spending cutback would, in turn, lessen military manpower needs.

Arena, who was present when a skin diver recovered the body, said: "When she was in my arms, waiting to put her on the boat, I saw no indication of blood."

Dr. Donald R. Mills, medical examiner for the district, who certified the cause of death as drowning, declined to comment on the Dinis statement.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
A COLORFUL SEASON

Autumn means different things to different people, but, for all of us, autumn comes this year on September 22. To some, it ushers in the excitement of football, others look forward to the hunting season, still others journey to the mountains to view the red, gold and yellow autumn colors that no artist can quiet catch in all their glory. There are still other people, especially on ranches and farms, to whom autumn means the conclusion of harvesting and planting. In the cities, autumn brings a freshness and a new life -- the opening of another theatre season. Each of the seasons has its attractions, and autumn has its full share. So whether you are a nature lover, theatre goer, football fan or just a plain stay - at - home who enjoys the smell of the cool fall air, there is something in autumn for you.

It behooves us to recommend to the head of the house to buy a hand gun to keep in the home and to teach the wife how to shoot it.

In fact we recommend that she be given target practice under the guidance of the Highway Patrol or the National Guard.

Surely the rifle range in the Armory could be made available.

We further suggest that the prowler be shot and questioned later if he is alive.

WALK A HIGH ROAD

It is good to walk fields and woodlands in any season of the year. There are those who know the deep content of walking in the rain or when snow is falling softly on a blurred countryside. A man needs to get away from the beehieves of activity. To savor the full joy of walking, one should be alone or with an understanding friend who does not feel it necessary to talk all the time.

September is a time to walk a quiet country road that climbs from the valley and meanders along a hillside slope or winds around a low mountain shoulder. If one has a favorite road, walk it three times in the ninth month. It is good to follow it as the first colors begin to show on the maples, birches and beeches; walk it again at the height of September beauty; and then go over the route after the leaves have fallen and autumn peace broods on the hills and the lowlands.

A quiet country road away from the hard arteries of concrete and macadam is a sanctuary in a harried world. Chipmunks scurry along the walks; flickers flash white rumps; chickadees chant unhurried alto songs. Fences and walk through the woodland tell of the farms of yesteryear. Brush-filled cellar holes are poignant memorials to men and women who dreamed dreams as a nation grew in stature.

On a hillside height on a mellow day, it is good to sit on a boulder and look to blue-green mountains across the valley. Peace hovers like a benediction and the heart has a chance to recharge a drained battery. Low roads are an essential part of daily living, but there are times when a man should take the high road and get a perspective from a height.

HOME TO REST

A recent editorial in The McDowell News, Marion, North Carolina, describing the return of a local serviceman killed in Vietnam brought to mind the return of the five Manchester, New Hampshire, men killed in the same no-win war.

In the case of the soldier from Marion, we repeat the pay homage to their heroes with the mixed sorrow and pride which can only be aroused by those who give their lives for their nation. There was a massing of the colors, a full honor guard and full military funeral. The bereavement of the families will in future years be tempered to a small degree by the memory of the tribute paid to their men.

In the case of the Manchester men, the town turned out to words of an associate of the family of the man, reprinted in The News.

"Kim came home last week. Kim is our own personal link with the war in Vietnam.

"It was both a sad and a happy occasion.

"Kim is a soldier, fighting in Vietnam, and had come home to escort the body of his wife's first cousin.

"The body was flown in by plane, Kim along with it, of course. Kim's family was at the airport to meet him and his sad burden.

"Sallie, Kim's sister, tells me that the plane landed and all the passengers got off. The body was unloaded on the other side of the plane, away from the gate, and was taken through a side gate under wraps . . . in the most unobtrusive manner.

"Kim had the flag with which to drape the casket - but there was no opportunity to drape it.

"I feel this is not a fitting way to honor our Vietnam dead upon their homecoming. I feel that the passengers should have been held and that the casket should have been unloaded in full view of the waiting crowd, draped in the flag of the country for which he died, and that the loudspeaker should have announced that this was the body of one of our fighting dead arriving home.

"To me this would have been a more fitting tribute than the one he received. Certainly it would bring the war more vividly home to some of those who seem hardly to know that one is going on, and that in it the young men of this nation are fighting and dying."

The more we consider the proposal the more sense it makes. How often during the day do we pause to give thought to those men of ours? No matter how much time it is, it isn't enough.

THE CARE THAT KILLS

The following is an excellent candidate for Quote of the Year:

"It's time we give up the idea that we know best what other people should do, and give some consideration to what is actually best for them"

The source is Dr. Margaret Bruckner, director of social research at the Benjamin Rose Institute of Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland, reporting the results of an unusual study of the effect of nursing home care on the aged.

One group of aged or mentally incompetent people in Cleveland, without close friends or relatives, was given intensive social agency services. Most of them were placed in institutions, where "they'd be better off."

A control group of oldsters received the hap-hazard and "inadequate" help normally available to the aged.

By the end of the third year of the study, 53 per cent of the first group had died, compared to 35 per cent of the control group.

The attrition rate was particularly marked among males. By the end of the fourth year, 72 per cent of the men receiving intensive care had died as against 42 per cent of the control group.

Nursing home care for the aged can actually be a form of enthenasia, says Dr. Bruckner. And, ironically, the better the nursing home, the higher the death rate.

One explanation is that old people, who may be infirm but who are still independent -minded, cantankerous individuals, are simply overwhelmed by the supervision they get in an efficient nursing home.

"Social workers, like doctors, have become institution - oriented," she says. "They have more control over the patient in a nursing home and feel more comfortable in that situation."

They are also sensitive to well- meaning pressures from the community to do what is "best" for the abandoned elderly, and this, in the popular view, means institutionalizing them. But as this study shows, removing old people from familiar surroundings and subjecting them to the stress of a new invironment can do more harm than good.

It does not follow that we may now with clear consciences begin to neglect the aged, the incapacitated, the destitute, the unemployable in our society. Rather, we should stop neglecting the human element in such situations.

Beyond that, the Cleveland study calls into question the current belief that all that is required to solve our social problems is "intensive care" in the form of a lot of money and a lot of grandiose programs, the kind of reasoning that begins, "Any country that can put a man on the moon..."

Putting a man on his feet is immensely more difficult. Doing the same for a group, a city, an entire nation is infinitely more complex.

NEW YORK (AP) — Flattery may get you nowhere, but double talk can often get you anywhere in the social game.

Double talk, of course, is the art of saying one thing while thinking another. It enables one to go on for years, if necessary, without saying a thing he means or meaning a thing he says.

For the uninitiated, here are a few samples of double talk, followed in each case by what the person who spoke was actually thinking:

"Gee, Joe, I never saw you looking better. Why don't you get out of that bed and give it to someone who's really sick?"—Boy, he sure looks like a goner. He'll never walk out of this hospital.

"I'm in a tough spot, and as you're one of my oldest friends, I've come to you for advice."—After you lend me the $500 I really need, then I'll listen to your advice.

"You mean you wallpapered this entire room all by yourself?"—It looks like you'd been helped by a herd of thumb-fumbling elephants.

"After all, it isn't the value of a present that counts, it's the sentiment behind it."—After all, it's the value of a present that counts.

"Let me congratulate you, Harry, it certainly was a welldeserved promotion."—But I was the one who deserved it, you bum.

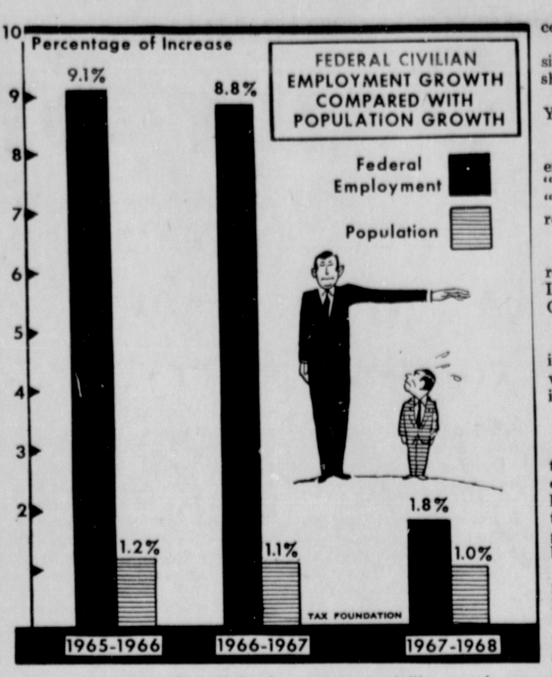

"Why Myrtle, after all these years we've been together, you certainly must know the reason I married you."—I was slow on my feet.

"Yeah, it's a real thrill to come back to these college reunions and remember all the fun we had here during those times that still seem like they were only yesterday.—What the hell is this guy's name anyway?

"Young man, you wouldn't try to take a taxicab from a tired old woman on a rainy day, would you?"—If you even reach for that door handle, Buster, I'll put the point of this umbrella right through your ribs.

"My wife insisted that I come to this exhibition of your modern paintings, and I must say they show real depth and feeling."—Did you spread the paint on with a butter knife, or shoot it at the canvas with a shotgun?

"Anytime I can do anything for you, just call on me."—And call...and call...and call...until you're hoarse.

H.L. Hunt Says

CUBA IS STILL RED — Republic USA will be permanently lost or reserved for the foreseeable future by reason of actions taken by the nation's leaders in the next few months. Irresponsible planners of policy entrenched from positions in the CIA, State and Defense Departments have guided us into precarious positions in Vietnam, the Middle East and Cuba.

While we react sometimes to communist aggression, little or no thought is given to liberation of enslaved peoples. It was freely said of Adm. Raborn, who was the personal choice of the President to head the CIA, following his successes in Indonesia and Africa, "Raborn is on his way out." The example of Raborn's success in the ousting of Sukarno can be duplicated in Cuba.

The stake of international chess is life or death for freedom. Cuba is ripe for a return to constitutional government provided our mistaken planners are not permitted to perpetuate their past errors. In the fields of international intrigue we are woefully inadequate. Many secondary positions not subject to presidential appointment are held by persons uninterested in saving freedom or by those dedicated to our losing it. The problem of Cuba needs immediate attention if only from a purely humanitarian point of view to releasing the enslaved Cubans.

Our own nation's destiny may well depend on elimination of a Soviet base 90 miles from our shores. Our enemies already have missiles aimed at the very heart of the USA while operating from a sanctuary for further subversion of Latin America. Experts rate the USA as fourth in ability to accomplish its aims. Until the nation's planners become first we can expect more failures and fewer victories. HLH

Washington - Merry Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--Among the briefing papers of the U.S. negotiators in Paris is a stark, 10-page document, entitled "Communist Terror Tactics in Vietnam," which casts a shadow over the truce talks and restrains the Americans from making careless concessions.

It presents a sober, documented account of communist purges in the North and assassinations in the south--a dark reminder of what could be expected if the Communists should ever take over South Vietnam.

"Does it necessarily follow that a communist victory in South Vietnam would lead to mass arrests and wholesale executions?" This grim question is raised by the document. "Such a prediction can only be based on the past performance and present policies of the Communist Party. From the 1945 'August Revolution' purges through the 1968 Hue massacre and beyond, the record is not very reassuring."

Captured enemy documents bring in daily confirmation that it is still communist policy to eliminate opposition by systematic assassination. Some captured instructions even assign assassination quotas and scold execution squads that fall behind in their murdering.

The victims, of course, are called "cruel tyrants" and "enemies of the people." However, they include women and children whose only crime is being related to government officials or sympathizers.

The document prepared for the U.S. Truce Team charges that the Communists since 1945 have made "a very considerable effort throughout Vietnam to eliminate any actual or potential opposition through arrests and political murder."

--MASSACRES IN NORTH--

The communist takeover in the North was followed by large scale executions, which reached massacre proportions during the 1951-56 period. Communist vengeance was first wreaked upon the landowners, but this was broadened in 1953 into a reign of terror known euphemistically as the "Political Struggle."

In many ways, it resembled the "cultural revolution" that has convulsed communist China. Instead of using red guards, however, the North Vietnamese party "enlisted the lowest elements of society to torture and murder under the motto 'Give the masses a free hand to fight the reactionaries.' This wave of terror spared no class or group, and even party members fell victim to it....

"An immediate result of this action," the document notes wryly, "was a greatly increased willingness to 'volunteer' for 'citizen-labor' and to pay taxes promptly. Also a substantial part of the population became implicated in these executions, thereby removing the sole onus from the party and government. The main effect, however, was to condition the rural population for the next step, the land reform."

The North Vietnamese have put out a lot of rosy propaganda about their land redistribution. They leave unmentioned the death that accompanied it.

D E C L A R E S T H E DOCUMENT: "In the implementation of this program, a norm of at least one death sentence per village was set for the first stage and was raised to five per village in the following stage. Since statistics on the number of victims of the over-all land reform campaign were never made public, estimates vary widely from 10,000 to 500,000.

"The actual figure probably lies between 100,000 and 200,000, not including the considerable number who committed suicide to avoid mass trials or who starved to death as a result of the enforced isolation of those victims, with their families, who were not permitted to leave their homes for months at a time during the campaign. By the time the land reform campaign ended in 1956, virtually the entire population was in mourning ...

"There is no way of telling how many people subsequently fell victim to the ever-tightening police controls that were systematically fastened on North Vietnam."

The mass bloodletting in the North was accompanied by more refined slaughter in the South.

--ALL ENEMIES ELIMINATED--

"Since the late 1950's," alleges the document, "the political terror tactics in the South have resulted in thousands of civilians being killed and tens of thousands wounded or abducted....these actions have, however, usually not been indiscriminate. They have been designed to eliminate officials, teachers, revolutionary development cadre and others who represent the government. Or they have been designed to discourage the population, both rural and urban, from cooperating with the government....

"The TET offensive of 1968 might well, the party believed, have resulted in a communist victory had the anticipated general uprising in the cities materialized. In anticipation of seizing power, the party reverted to some of the purge tactics it had used in 1945 and 1946 to eliminate or neutralize the opposition leadership....

"The temporary occupation, in February 1968, of a large part of the old imperial capital, Hue, provided the world with a grim foretaste of what a total communist occupation of South Vietnam might well produce. Despite the intense fighting in the city, cadre equipped with lists of names and addresses on clipboards went about arresting and executing Vietnamese and foreigners who were of significance in the community.

" Often their wives and children were executed with them. In all, approximately 3,000 civilian men, women and children were executed in the Hue area. Some were beheaded and a number were buried alive after hasty executions. The victims were mainly the police, political leaders, provincial and local civil servants, anybody who worked for the Americans, and anybody who was known for his opposition to the Viet Cong.

"The Hue Massacre and other similar actions would indicate that (The Communists) still believe truong Chinh's Dictum: 'For a new-born revolutionary power to be lenient with counter-revolutionaries is tantamount to committing suicide.' "

SIZZLING SEVENTIES:
Blacks' Siege of Construction Fronts Launches Drive For Well Paying Jobs in All Industries

By VICTOR RIESEL

WASHINGTON, D.C.:--It looks like a long hot winter--and a hotter decade right through the searing '70s. Those who see this not will make 1970 the year of the ostrich.

A tiny spark of this heat to come was set off in a wastepaper basket when leaders of the Pittsburgh Black Construction Coalition burned a building and construction trades union offer last Monday on the seventh floor of the agitated town's City-County Building--and attorney Byrd Brown, community NAACP leader, warned that there would no longer be any peaceful demonstrations to force unions to open their books to black workers.

Mr. Brown is a fine orator and may have been more rhetorical than threatening. But the fact is, that neither the public nor the Congress appears aware that the black drive on the construction front is the black thrust of the coming decade.

Direct action in Pittsburgh, Chicago and Seattle are but the first offensives, of black leaders who have won the laws--civil rights, open housing, integration education equality and voting rights. Now they want the jobs, the economics to go with the laws.

One of President Nixon's aides, who is right up front trying to "cool it," dryly points out that the government will spend over a trillion dollars remodeling the cities during the '70s. This will make 10 million new jobs. Black workers want one million of these--20,000 in each state. Government jobs are union jobs. So the black workers want "In" on the high-wage craft unions.

The construction front is the first front because it's the visible front. But the drive will spill over into every corner of business, industry and commerce.

The battle of the '70s comes with the model cities program because the local swimming pool (as in Seattle), the local skyscraper (as in Pittsburgh), the local university building (as in Chicago) is right there, right in sight, right within walking or marching distance of the old slums. So the long march is on--and the government will be on the side of the marchers, the protesters, the demonstrators.

And so it may come to pass in big cities that $75-$100 million worth of construction, new housing, urban renewal may be halted.

Ironically enough, the test of tempers, the mood of the challengers and the beseiged will come on Sept. 24. On that day in Chicago, a three-man federal committee will open hearings in the -- of all places -- Lincoln - Douglas room of Chicago's Hotel La Salle. Labor leaders, contractors and black coalitionists have been invited to come and reason together. Black leaders want thousands of jobs immediately -- meaning thousands of memberships in the craft unions. The union chiefs say there just is no room for such new workers and there must be apprenticeship training. The black leaders say that white directors of apprenticeship training will try to make those courses the biggest "drop-out program in history."

Most likely the government will impose the "Philadelphia Plan" which calls for specific quotas of black, Puerto Rican and other minority workers on each job -- fixed quota, set in advance.

And also on Sept. 24, in Atlantic City, N. J., building and construction leaders will issue their white paper during their national convention. It will not be belligerent. It will not be racist. It will state, in effect, that there has been a loose use of statistics by the black leaders, the government and the media.

The document will say in a muted fashion what AFL-CIO president George Meany has said of extreme black militants -- that they want the issue and not the reform. It is labor's position that black workers are not being kept out of the building and construction unions. They assert that there are over two million black AFL-CIO members -- and that hundreds of thousands of them are in the construction field. And the lowest paid construction rate is $4 an hour. There are over 200,000 black workers in the Laborers' International Union (AFL-CIO) -- averaging $5 an hour.

The union chiefs declare that the government is not dealing honestly with them in the coinage of statistics. They charge that the press and the federal people persist in referring to the three or four highest paid crafts -- such as the electrical, plumbing and pipefitting and sheet metal fields were skilled workers who can read blueprints and needed "in this day of moon shots, atomic energy plants and 100-story skyscrapers."

This, say they, means long training in apprenticeship schools. The black leaders retort that this is not the standard for whites -- that there are "at least nine ways to get into a union, many of them with no such training."

The union leaders say that black workers have not been kept out and that "in Philadelphia, for example, some 30 to 40 per cent of construction union members are black. Most of them are in the laborers union but even if we exclude these, there are over 12 per cent in the other unions though the government charges there are only 1.6 per cent."

So goes the shadow-boxing of statistics -- leaving the black community impatient.

"The construction trades front is coming up hot because of proximity to the black ghettos where it can be seen," said one government official now right in the vortex center. "But it will pour over, this fight will, into the invisible areas -- the professions, the hospitals, the executive suites in the '70s. The black people have the laws. Now they want the jobs. This is the theme of the '70s. They're looking to us for help. They trust the government. They'll get this assistance."

It does look like the '70 will sizzle.

Should The Guests Pay The Price of the Cake

Dear Ann Landers: If you think you've heard everything, dig this: "Over the weekend my husband and I attended a wedding. The ceremony was held in a church. It was simple but quite spiritual, the way a wedding ought to be. Following the ceremony the guests were invited to the reception in the church social hall. Sandwiches, cookies, fruit punch and hot coffee were set out on a nicely decorated table. On a separate table was a cash register (manned by two relatives) and the wedding cake with a large sign which read, "Buy a piece of wedding cake for luck. Help finance the honeymoon. Price 24 cents."

Several guests lined up and bought a piece of cake. Even though I love cake I refused to allow my husband to buy me a piece, as a matter of principle. He bought a piece for himself, however, "as a gesture of good will." His reasoning was, "When in Rome do as the Romans do."

We both would like to know what you think of this.--Minneapolis Query

Dear Q.: Minneapolis isn't Rome. What's more my husband and I have attended several weddings in Minneapolis and we never had to buy cake. In my opinion that cake sale was a tasteless move.

Dear Ann Landers: This is for "Wet Hankie" and for all the other criers in the world who are embarrassed because they are unable to control their emotions. Take the advice of a girl who learned the hard way: Cry, cry, cry! It's good for you.

I am 17 and I very nearly had a nervous breakdown because I was afraid to show any signs of "weakness." My father is a career Army officer--well-meaning but very strict and spartan in his approach to everything and everybody. My mother survived a German concentration camp. That inhuman experience made her a real stoic. I was taught that it was a disgrace to let anyone see the soft side of me.

Until I was 15 I managed to keep everything bottled up. Then all of a sudden I began to fall to pieces. I became frightened of things I couldn't explain or understand. My hands shook for no reason. My heart pounded and I was sure I was having a heart attack. My palms perspired and I had dizzy spells. It was my biology teacher who put me in touch with the help I needed. And it was just in time. The doctor said I had a small ulcer and was heading for a nervous breakdown.

I hope Wet Hankie listens to you. And I hope all the criers out there will stop being ashamed. Tell them, again and again to keep crying. It's good for them. If you know what Sholom means, use it for my signature.--San Jose

Dear Sholom: Yes, I know what it means. Peace. And it's wonderful.

Dear Ann Landers: What do you mean "a good cigar?" There is no such thing. All cigars stink. It's just that some cigars stink worse than others. People count on you for the truth. Why don't you quit being so polite and tell it like it is? --Fresh Air Fiend

Dear Fiend: You did and I thank you.

What awaits you on the other side of the marriage veil? How can you be sure your marriage will work? Read Ann Lander's booklet "Marriage--What To Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

We continue our theme: "Dealing With The Lost." In this lesson we will deal with backsliders. There are backsliders, who are careless and have no desire to come back to Christ, such, needs to be told that they are just as lost as they were before they were saved. As far as their condition, it is worse, said Peter. (2 Peter 2:20-23) Regardless of the teaching, "once saved always saved," the scriptures teach otherwise. It is possible for saved people to sin so as to be lost. The Corinthians were saved, but, became guilty of many sins later, and were taught to cleanse themselves of such. (2 Cor. 7:1; 1 Cor. 3:1-4) The Hebrew writer tells of some who so sin as, to count the blood of Christ by which they were sanctified, "An unholy thing, and do despite to the Spirit of grace." (Heb. 10: 27-29) There are many other scriptures that could be used to show that we can sin, even though saved, and be lost eternally.

I believe the word "Backslide" though used to describe God's people, the Jews, who left Him, can be used to adequately describe His people who leave Him under the New Testament. The word means, to go backwards. To cease to grow is to began to die, this is a physical law, when our bodies reach maturity, they began to die. This process is usually so gradual that it takes years to be noticed, nonetheless when we quit going forward, we go backward. Even though this is true of nature, it doesn't have to be true of our Spiritual nature. Paul said, "But though our outward man perish, yet the inward man is renewed day by day." (2 Cor. 4:16).

When Israel left God, the prophet Jeremiah wrote: "Hath a nation changed their gods, which are yet no gods? But my people have changed their glory for that which doth not profit." (Jer. 2:11) Jeremiah points out, in verses 10 and 11 of this chapter, that Israels neighbors were more firm and faithful to their false gods than they were to the true God. Their honor for their gods was such, that though they were gods of wood and stone, they would not change them for gods of silver and gold, no, not even for the living and true God. He is not praising the nations in this, but, is pointed out to the reproach of Israel, that they, who were the only people who had no cause to change their God, were yet the only people who had changed Him. Little wonder he says in verse 12, "Be astonished, O ye heavens, at this, and be horribly afraid, be ye very desolate, saith the Lord." They committed two evils in this, (vs. 13) "Forsook the fountain of living waters, and hewed out cisters, broken cisters that can hold no water. We are told, "Take heed, lest there be in any of you an evil heart of unbelief, in departing from the living God." (Heb. 3:12) If we make an idol of any creature – wealth, pleasure, or honor, we shall find it a cistern, which we take a great deal of pain to hew out and fill, yet in time of need will not suffice. Let us cleave to the Lord, he has the words of eternal life. (Acts 11:23).

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Tiny Tim, the entertainer with the shoulder length hair, the falsetto voice and the ukulele, is planning to marry a 17-year-old New Jersey girl.

He made the announcement after an appearance Wednesday at the New Jersey State Fair. His fiancee, Vicki Budinger, who graduated from high school this year, said, "We have been engaged for some time."

The couple met in Philadelphia in June when Miss Budinger obtained his autograph on his book "Beautiful Thoughts."

On a television talk show in July, Tim said he had been so moved by meeting someone he called "Miss Vicki" that he shed a tear and put it in an envelope he carries in his ukulele.

Tiny Tim, whose real name is Hubert Kauhry, is the son of a Lebanese father and a Jewish mother and was raised in New York. He is believed to be in his 40's.

Women Taking The Reins Again

By HUGH MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

PARIS (AP) — The wives of four U.S. Air Force pilots missing in North Vietnam clung today to the slim hope of a North Vietnamese promise to let them know whether they are "wives or widows."

The women, from the Dallas, Tex., area, gained the promise from a two-hour meeting with members of the North Vietnamese delegation to the Paris peace talks Wednesday.

They heard their husbands described as "war pirates" and "war criminals" and saw pictures of wounded civilians and wrecked buildings, allegedly the results of U.S. bombing raids. They were asked to denounce U.S. participation in the war when they returned home.

"We did not wish to argue or to offend them, but to seek information," said the wives' spokesman, Bonnie Singleton.

And they gained a promise from Xuan Danh, a North Vietnamese official, that he would contact Hanoi and write each of them, after they return to Texas, of the fate of their husbands.

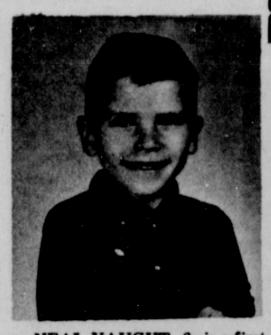

Mrs. Singleton and her companions, Joy Jeffrey, Sandy McElhanon and Paula Hartness, also were promised that letters they gave to the North Vietnamese would be sent to Hanoi for delivery—if their husbands are alive.

The North Vietnamese also said that anyone would be welcome to their delegation headquarters in Paris providing they came as individuals and were not sponsored by the U.S. government. Mrs. Singleton said there was no indication, however, that Hanoi would release a list of U.S. prisoners.

The women arrived Sunday to make the personal appeal. They had only two questions to ask, they said: "Are our husbands alive, and if so, in what condition are they?"

A quick hug, a shy smile or a small hand held out in friendship are well worth the time spent at the Child Development Center.

9-Game Schedule Tonight

Perryville's East Prairie's and Poplar Bluff's defenses face big tests tonight after holding their opponents scoreless last week. A nine- game schedule is set tonight.

On the otherhand, Malden and Cape will have their potent offenses tried again after running for 42 and 30 points respectively last week.

Also to be determined tonight will be a leader in the Northern Division standings as Perryville, Sikeston, Kennett and Poplar Bluff pair up in Division matches.

Chaffee and Gideon could be gunned down from the top perch of their respective Southern and Bootheel Division Standings. All this makes for an exciting night around the district.

TONIGHT'S SCHEDULE

Cape Central at Blytheville, Ark.

OVER-EMPLOYED

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Faced with accusations that Indians hold a disproportionate number of United Nations jobs, the foreign ministry here made a study that shows that India is not the only over-represented nation in the international body.

Fifteen other countries have also exceeded their allotted job quotas, the study found.

They are Ethiopia, Ghana, Nigeria, United Arab Republic, Ceylon, Indonesia, Pakistan, Philippines, Thailand, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Chile, Colombia, Ecuador and Syria, according to the study.

Sports Corner

The coutndown continues toward the league titles and state playoffs as the second Friday evening of high school football will get underway tonight with nine games scheduled and six of those in division play.

As we move into tonight's action our prognosication record stands at 10 of 11, missing on the Sikeston match with Mayfield, Ky. last week.

Looking at tonight's schedule it seems our job won't be any easier with the league encounters set nd the matches of non-league rivals.

Without any further comment, here's the way we see tonight's outcome:

CAPE CENTRAL AT BLYTHEVILLE, ARK. - This should prove a worth while venture for the Tigers, who we figure to come out of this battle with no less than a victory and added points toward a state playoff berth. Cape 35 Blytheville 14.

HAYTI AT CARUTHERSVILLE — Rivalry is the name of this match. It's always hard to call a winner when these two neighbors meet and this game should be little different.

Generally the host end up with the win, but we'll go against that tonight and say... Hayti 21, Caruthersville 6.

CHAFFEE AT EAST PRAIRIE — A loss here could drop the Red Devils out of first place, while a win for the Eagles could put them at top. What incinative these two schools have toward this victory. Both come into the game with opening game wins, Chaffee having beat defending co-champs Portageville last week while the Eagles shutout Bootheel power... Illmo-Scott City. Our call is... Chaffee 21, East Prairie 13.

CAIRO, ILL. AT CHARLESTON —The Pilots come to Missouri for their season ingaural after having missed last week's scheduled opener because of the death of its star quarterback. Charleston had little trouble with tonight's visitors at Cairo last season and should expect little tonight. Charleston 14, Cairo 7.

DEXTER AT PORTAGEVILLE --- Here's our upset call for the evening. The Bearcats got off to a good start last week while the Bulldogs had their troubles, but we see a fired up hosting crew and a win for them. Portageville 21, Dexter 20.

ILLMO — SCOTT CITY AT GIDEON --- The Bootheel Division title could be riding on this game. Gideon has a league win already this season and another mark here could assuryit of at least a share of the honor. We see Gideon 14, Illmo- Scott City 7.

MALDEN AT JACKSON --- Don Clayton might not get 30 again, but 24 would be all is needed to keep the Indians in the defeat column. Clayton ... Malden 25, Jackson 21.

KENNETT AT POPLAR Bluff --- The Mules stingy defense should add another zero to its credit tonight, thus leaving the game up to its offense while will power downfield for a ... 35-0 win.

PERRYVILLE AT SIKESTON --- With the injury problems the Bulldogs have, it seems almost a sure bet the Dogs will remain in the loss column... unless the defense can pep up and pull it out... we'll say. Sikeston 14, Perryville 0.

Indiana has the potential, Penn State has a puzzle, and Southern California has a problem as most of the nation's major college football teams open the 1969 season Saturday.

Indiana's power-packed Hoosiers, most everyone's choice to represent the Big Ten in the Rose Bowl this year since Ohio State cannot repeat for the trip, plays at Kentucky in their curtain-raiser.

Penn State, ranked No. 2 in the nation last year, faces "an unknown quantity" in Navy, according to Coach Joe Patern

And Southern California, which lost to top-ranked Ohio State in the Rose Bowl last year, meets Nebraska with the possibility that No. 1 quarterback Jimmy Jones will be on the shelf.

Kentucky will be eager fo successful start under new coach John Ray, formerly with Notre Dame. But it appears that the hot shot Hoosiers have too much power with the passing of Harry Gonso and running of John Isenbarger and Jade Butcher.

Paterno says Penn State's game with Navy is the most difficult opener he's faced.

"We know so little about Navy," said Paterno. "They have a new coach, new system and new staff. They're an unknown quantity."

The Middies, who meet Penn State at Annapolis, Md., are under the guidance of Rick Forzano, former coach of Connecticut and an assistant with the Cincinnati Bengals of the American Football League.

Coach John McKay of Southern California says that Jones, a highly touted sophomore has been troubled the past several days with muscle spasms in his back and may not play at all.

McKay said a final decision will not be made until game time. With two other candidates ailing, the job may fall to the No. 4 quarterback, Greg Briner, another sophomore.

"There's no sense in taking a chance with Jones," said McKay. "His future is too bright."

Ohio State is the only team in the Big Ten delaying its start until next week. The Buckeyes make their season debut at home against Texas Christian University on Sept. 27.

Other top games Saturd find Northwestern at Notre Dame; Purdue at TCU, Washington State at Illinois. Oregon State at Iowa; Vanderbilt at Michigan; Washington at Michigan State; Oklahoma at Wisconsin; Texas at California and Iowa State at Syracuse.

Also Oklahoma State at Arkansas; Houston at Florida; SMU ,at Georgia Tech; North Carolina at North Carolina State; Alabama at Virginia Tech and these night games, Texas A&M at LSU: Pitt at UCLA; Kansas State at Baylor and Kansas at Texas Tech.

Notre Dame, which lost quarterback Terry Hanratty to graduation, plans to stick more to the ground than usual and rely on the power running of fullback Jeff Zimmerman and halfbacks Denny Allan and Ed Ziegler. Joe Theismann, a scrambling quarterback, will direct the offense.

Cards, Cowboys List Disabled

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Coach Charley Winner of the St. Louis football Cardinals could lowscore Coach Tom Landry of Dallas in a count of the teams' disabled lists, but the Big Red and the Cowboys will be playing a different sort of game in the Cotton Bowl Sunday.

Winner's No. 2 quarterback, Jim Hart, is still nursing a sore finger, but will be available to back up starter Charley Johnson, and running back McArthur Lane is lame with a knee injury.

Landry's problems are: quarterback Craig Morton out with a finger injury, running back Dan Reeves recovering from knee surgery, pass receiver Bob Hayes out with a shoulder separation.

Landry will fill a couple of the gaps with rookies, 1963 Heisman Trophy winner Roger Staubach of Navy at quarterback and Calvin Hill of Yale at running back. Dennis Homan, a second-year pro, will fill in for Hayes.

In back of ex-sailor Staubach is rookie Bob Belden, Terry Hanratty's understudy at Notre Dame.

Both teams enter Sunday's fray with 4-2 exhibition records.

St. Louis has not beaten Dallas since 1965, losing 27-10 in St. Louis last year.

Farm Boys Add Punch

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A kid recently brought up from the farm was the fair-haired boy of the St. Louis Cardinals clubhouse today. Rookie Ted Simmons swatted a two-out single in the ninth inning Thursday to give the Redbirds an 8-7 comeback victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The switch-hitting catcher, who walked up to the plate after Lou Brock and Vada Pinson had struck out, hit his single to right field, scoring Curt Flood.

Simmons, all-star catcher for the Cards' Tulsa farm club this past season, was mobbed by Cardinals in front of the dugout.

But Simmons had to share the limelight with a couple of other recent callups, Joe Hague and Sal Campisi. They figured, along with veterans Pinson and Flood, rather significantly in the Cardinal victory.

Pinson launched a three-run Cardinal third inning with a double that scored Flood, who had walked. Then Hague, who played briefly for the Cardinals last year and early this season, hit a home run into the right field seats.

Then came a rude shock, a seven-run Pirate blitzkreig in the seventh inning highlighted by Jose Pagan's two-run homer, his eighth.

With loser Joe Gibbon (4-1) on the mound for Pittsburgh, the Cardinals scored three times to move within one run of the Pirates in the last of the seventh.

Vic Davanon doubled to left center and Flood singled him across the plate. Then came Pinson's homer, the 2,000th hit of his career.

Rookie reliever Campisi (1-0), the winner, came on in the eighth and although he walked four, he held the Pirates hitless through the remaining two innings.

Two singles and Joe Torre's groundout tied the score and Simmons finally wrapped it up.

The Cardinals hit the road today for eight games, opening a series with the Chicago Cubs.

We don't have to start from scratch each year.

We've been making the same basic VW for so long now, you'd think we'd be bored with the whole thing.

But the fact is, we're still learning.

For no matter how perfect we think one year's model is, there's always an engineer who wants to make it more perfect.

You see, at the Volkswagen factory we spend 100% of our time making our car work better and 0% making it look better.

Any change is an improvement.

And when we do make new parts we try to make them fit older models. So there's nothing to stop a Volkswagen from running forever.

(Which may explain why Volkswagens are worth so much at trade-in time.)

Starting from scratch each year can get in the way of all that.

Just when they've ironed out the kinks in the current model, they have to face the kinks in the next.

We'll never understand all the hoopla over the "big changes" for next year's models.

Weren't they proud of this year's?

Har bor officials praised the rapid response and effort of the American Navymen in extinguishing recurring fires and keeping the heavily damaged ship afloat. Officials believed the ship would have sunk and blocked the harbor, if not for the American assistance.

Carpenter Asks More Spending On Sea Research

ATCHISON, Kan. (AP)—Former astronaut Scott Carpenter said Wednesday night the government should spend more money for research in the ocean depths.

"The value of the lunar surface lies in scientific knowledge, not in raw materials, the former Navy commander said. "On the other hand, we have an area much closer that we know is rich in raw materials, and that is the continental shelf."

"The total area of the continental shelf in the world is equal to that of the continent of Africa. We have this giant area just waiting to be explored."

Carpenter flew Aurora 7, the second U.S. manned orbital flight, in the Mercury series, and since that time has devoted most of his time to sea exploration, having once spent 30 days on the ocean floor.

Carpenter appeared at St. Benedict's College as part of an annual lecture series.

Dear Sir:

I am writing in regards to the letter from Rev. T. A. McDonough which was printed in your Monday edition of the Standard and also your apology of the one bad joke in Saturday's paper. I want to say I agree one hundred per cent with everything that Rev. McDonough had to say. He was writing his thought from a pastor's view point. I am wiriting mine as a parent. I am and have been since moving to Sikeston three years ago very shocked and embarrassed at the "so called jokes" in your paper on the back side of page one. I did not read the one you apologized for as I have learned not to read that page as a rule for I don't want to corrupt my mind with such filth. I will not allow my children to buy such literature from the magazine racks in the stores and then to think the only daily newspaper in our town prints the same kind of immoral rubbish. I really haven't words to describe my feelings along this line but I pray God will convict whoever is in charge of the printing of this page and from now on there will be nothing but clean reading which I would not be embarrassed to have my children read.

There are plenty of good clean and character building jokes and writings to be printed that would help our young people be better men and women of our community.

You may publish this letter if you wish for I am not ashamed of where I stand on the subject.

Your subscriber,
Mrs. Kenneth Hull.

Dear Mr. B!anton,

I say hurrah for Pastor T. A. McDonough. I am glad someone had enough Christian concern with the Spirit of Christ in his heart to challenge you in regards to your smutty jokes printed in your daily Sikeston Standard. You do want people to read your paper don't you? Did you know them jokes are of the Devil, and just what he likes for you to print. I'm one hundred per cent with Bro. McDonough.

So please, think on these things I think it would please our Heavenly Father.

Sincerely,
Mrs. David Klingel

Trio Charged With Theft

MALDEN - Burglary and larceny charges have been filed against three - two Malden teenagers and a parolee from Holcomb - for the September ninth break-in of the Malden Tri-County Trade School.

Prosecuting Attorney Franklin D. Holder filed charges yesterday in the office of the Dunklin County Magistrate Court against Andy Cruz Garcia, 18, of Malden; Dennis Wesley Swift, 22, of Holcomb; and Vernon D. Crowe, 17, of Malden.

The trio was charged with the break-in and burglary of the school, were $25 in coins were taken earlier this month. The trade school was vandalized on September 9, and officials estimated approximately $2,000 worth of damages to the school.

No vandalism charges have been filed against the three to date, the prosecutor's office said today.

Charges of leaving the scene of an accident are presently pending against Garcia. His case is set for trial November 5 on that charge. Swift is on parole from the Missouri Penitentiary on a two-year sentence. He was sentenced in July, 1968 for uttering.

Tons of Bombs From W.W. II To Be Disarmed

HONIARA, British Solomons (AP) — A British Army demolition expert has arrived in the British Solomons to get rid of American wartime bombs and bullets at Hell's Point, near Honiara township.

Warrant Officer C. J McKiernan of the Royal Army Ordinance Corps is expected to spend two years at Hell's Point and two other wartime ammunition dumps.

Hell's Point has been fenced off since 1945 for safety reasons. Despite accidental explosions and fires which have destroyed much of the dump since then, officials believe thousands of tons of high explosive remain in the 270-acre safety reserve.

In 1942-43, American troops dumped 15,000 tons of explosives and ammunition there. In 1953 the Australian Army removed 1,000 tons, but a great deal remains.

In 1967 the British Army got rid of 12,000 rounds of shells and mortar bombs from between Hell's Point and the wartime Henderson Airfield, but it will be Warrant Officer McKiernan's job to clean up the remainder.

Honduras relies heavily on bananas. Plantations along the nation's hot Caribbean coast account for 60 per cent of its foreign trade.

Burns Asks for Straight Nerve Gas Test Reply

HONOLULU (AP) — Gov. John Burns says he wants to know whether the U.S. Army did or didn't test nerve gas in 1966 and 1967 on the slopes of Mauna Loa.

The governor said he cabled Army Secretary Stanley R. Resor Wednesday asking for clarification of reports involving apparently conflicting answers from the Army itself.

"I'm not accusing the Army of duplicity," Burns said, "but I am greatly concerned over reports that nerve gas tests were conducted."

Burns said he would await Resor's answer before recommending possible action by the state Land Board, which could cancel the balance of the Army's five-year lease on a 1,144-acre test site on the side of Hawaii's second-tallest volcano.

The lease, expiring in January 1971, stipulated that the land would be used "as a site to conduct classified meteorological and related tests."

Rep. Patsy I. Mink, D-Hawaii, said Tuesday the Army had acknowledged in a letter to her that it had used the site for testing the nerve agent GB and the incapacitating agent BZ a total of four times in 1966-67.

On July 31, in a written response to the Honolulu Star-Bulletin's question whether it had ever tested "either chemical or biological warfare weapons in Hawaii" the Army said:

"No, the Army has not tested either chemical or biological weapons in Hawaii. The Army has conducted limited chemical tests under strict safety precautions to obtain defense department information."

Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, said the Defense Department had assured him a month previously nerve gases were not being tested in his state.

Burns commented: "I'm aware the Army must conduct experiments to insure the security of the nation. But my first concern is the welfare of the citizens of this state."

The Army's test site, in a jungle area, is 14 miles from Hilo, a city of 27,000.

Arbyrd Marshal Suffers Burns

ARBYRD - Emerson Thompson, 64, city marshal of Arbyrd, suffered first and second degree burns and a fractured vertebrae in an explosion at 9:30 a.m. Monday. He was taken to Dunklin County Memorial Hospital in Kennett.

Mrs. Thompson said this morning that her husband was burning weeds behind the City Hall when the accident occurred. Apparently the line of the propane weed burner Thompson was using to burn weeds, which a mower couldn't reach, stopped up. He beat on the line and gas started flowing freely. When he attempted to light the burner with some matches, the gas exploded. Witnesses said Thompson was thrown three to four feet into the air.

Thompson's shirt caught fire but he was able to extinguish the flame by rolling over on the ground.

CHRISTIANA, South Africa (AP) — The world is going through a crisis of confidence in law and order, Prime Minister John Vorster said here at the ceremonial opening of a new police station.

Bloody clashes are taking place in many parts of the world because of political and religious differences, he said. "But in South Africa, and this I say to our enemies who are so eager to poke their noses into our affairs, we know how to behave ourselves despite the greatest provocation and also know how to solve our own problems."

YOU CAN'T BEAT AN ACE

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Here's a golfing oddity.

Dr. Grady Morrow holed out his second shot on a par-3, 175-yard hole from a sand trap. But, he still lost the hole.

University of Texas at El Paso head football coach Bobby Dobbs, one of the foursome, shot a hole-in-one on the same No. 7 hole at Coronado Country Club. It was his first ace.

Another member, Jim Morrow, had a three on the hole, and the fourth player, James Nace, had a four.

The scorecard showed a 1-2-3-4 for the hole.

MARK OF EXCELLENCE
Here, much to the discomfort of smaller cars. '70 Nova.

Nova has smaller cars squirming principally because it doesn't make you squirm.

The not-too-small Nova Coupe seats five adults. Sedan, six.

And you get windows instead of portholes. A bona fide trunk. And a wide-stance ride on a 111" wheelbase.

Further, you have a happy choice of six engines and five transmissions (including low-cost, no-clutch Torque-Drive).

And Nova is anything but dowdy. See above.

Certainly, little cars have to be more than a little uneasy about Nova's easy price.

It simply doesn't cost that much more to own that much more car.

SENATOR EAGLETON REPORTS

Washington, D. C. – A proposed 2% tax on the sale of news and feature articles prepared in the District of Columbia was killed yesterday by unanimous vote of the Fiscal Affairs subcommittee of the Senate District committee, Senator Thomas F. Eagleton (D-Mo.), subcommittee chairman, announced today.

Senator Eagleton and Senator William B. Spong, Jr. (D-Va.) had announced their opposition to the tax in an open subcommittee hearing recently.

"It raises serious constitutional questions and would set a precedent posing grave danger to freedom of the press in this nation," they said today.

Yesterday, in an executive session of the subcommittee which ranged over the full 1970 District of Columbia revenue bill, Eagleton and Spong were joined by the third subcommittee member, Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R-Md.) in voting to kill the 2% news tax.

Eagleton and Spong expressed sympathy with the financial needs of the district and poedged to try to raise in some other way the revenue that would have been raised by the news tax.

The 2% news tax, as contained in the District revenue bill passed by the House August 11, would have been levied on "the sale of or charges for the service of preparing, providing, or supplying photographs, comic strips, special feature articles, feature articles, new items, or any similar material intended for use in newspapers, magazines, periodicals, circulars, radio, television, or any other means of publication."

"The District government said this tax would only have applied to Washington users of news and feature articles produced here," Eagleton and Spong said.

"The language of the bill failed to specify this. And even if the tax were so applied, it would still be unacceptable in principle.

"The power to tax is the power to destroy. This would set a new tax precedent which, once established, would give the government power to tax, among others, syndicated columnists and the writers of interpretive articles. This could lead, if taken to its worst possible conclusion, to the taxing of certain writers out of existence.

"It would have been the only such tax in the United States, and obviously would have raised constitutional questions about the roles of government and a free press. At its best, it still would have been a burden on the free flow of information."

Eagleton and Spong noted that the news tax section of the District revenue bill passed the House without comment and critized the District government for having failed to give this provision of the bill the same elaboration in hearings that its witnesses gave other portions of the revenue bill.

Eagleton said the Fiscal Affairs subcommittee would meet again soon in executive session to decide on other sections of the full revenue bill.

Mrs. Charles Allen Cook, organist, accompanied Mrs. Herbert Marshall, who sang "Calm is the Night," "Entreat Me Not to Leave Me" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Brown Jr., Charleston, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph William Heineman, St. Louis.

The bride wore a floor length gown, Victorian style, of white silk organza over taffeta. The empire waist was accented with a belt of pink atin. The high neck, long sleeves with tight- fitting cuffs, and train had inserts of pink satin ribbon covered with white Venise lace. Her veil of imported English silk illusion was attached to a band of white and pink silk organza flowers accented with pink satin ribbon bows.

Honored guests were Mrs. E. T. Burke, grandmother of the bride, and Mrs. Elsie Heineman and Mrs. Ann Tobin, grandmothers of the groom.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Bruce (Barbara Gaines) Whitaker, Memphis, Tenn. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Charles Semas, Dallas, Tex.; Miss Tricia Bruck, Columbia; Miss Jeanne Ann Winchester, Galveston, Tex., and Miss Kay Walton, sikeston. Junior bridesmaid was Miss Sarah Brown, sister of the bride.

Reason For Selling- Have Moved To Mayfield, Ky.

This fine farm, located on black top Highway 703, 6 miles east of Clinton, Ky., consists of 276 acres, with 250 acres cleared land. The farm has 66 acre feed grain base, and is presently in corn and soyabeans, which will be retained by the present renters.

Here is a fine farm that has always been well cared for by Mr. Amos F. Ward, who took a pride in always supplying every thing that land needed, such as taking care of all erosion, drains and fills and sparing no expense to see that the job was well done -- and this fine farm is certainly a credit to Mr. Ward's desire to keep his land in tip top condition, and this farm will produce a top crop of anything grown in this entire area - year after year.

The farm has one house, located on school bus and mail routes and is centrally located to the industries of Wickliffe, Ky. on the north, Mayfield, Ky. on thy east, Fulton, Ky. and Union City, Tenn. on the south, and Hickman, Ky. on the west.

We feel real sure tha any Real Estate will continue to increase in value in this thriving area. Clinton, Ky., County Seat of Hickman County, is a thriving city of wide awake businesses of all kinds, a good market for all farm products, one of the live stock counties of Southwest Kentucky, fine school, new post office, 2 strong, friendly banks, automobile dealerships, farm implement dealers, modern feed mills, hospital, large super markets, lumber dealers, all types of businesses and the church of your choice. We feel sure you will enjoy owning a fine farm near Clinton, Ky., and living among the fine, friendly people of Hickman County.

Our decision to sell this farm, since we have moved away, will certainly be your opportunity to purcahse one of the real fine farms of this entire area and you and your friends are cordially invited to come and look over this farm any time before day of sale.

It could be that a few hours spent here looking over this farm might pay you big dividends in the months and yas that lie ahead.

For any additional information please contact Mrs. Nola M. Hull, owner, phone 247-2557, Mayfield, Ky., or Keith Akin, Realtor, phone 653-4168, Clinton, Ky., or B. N. LeDuke and Son, Auctioneers and Real Estate Brokers, phone 253-6526 or 253-7646, Tiptonville, Tennessee.

The editor was 66 years old yesterday. At this time we are fat and sassy and enjoying the best of health, thank God. The first hundred years are the hardest they say, but we fear the next 66 years will be the easiest. However, when we do arrive at the age when we are a care, it will be a blessing to give up the ghost.

Thirty nine years ago today, the Missus hooked us. Thirty-nine years has been a long time in a way and a short time in a way. We are both looking forward to the next 39 to bring peace and contentment.

Illegal Acts Do Not Forge Partnership

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Marvin was the victim of a blisskrieg. After meeting Helen, he couldn't sleep, eat or evn think about betting on the horses, which was his favorite pastime. In fact, he finally packed his bags, left his wife and set up housekeeping with his Helen-of-Joy. And as security for Helen's future, he promised her that she would be his equal partner in any business transactions that he might become engaged in from then on.

Thereafter, Marvin, in effect, kept rolling sevens. Every deal he made proved a winner and he accumulated a relative fortune. One relative he didn't count on, however, was his wife. When he died, she claimed his entire estate as his widow.

"She may be his widow," Helen protested in court, "but I was his partner. Half of everything he had belongs to me. That was our agreement."

"Huh!" was the widow's response. "While their type of partnership might have entitled her to dishpan hands, that's all it entitled her to. She wasn't Marvin's partner. What she was, was obvious to everyone. A shady lady!"

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you recognize Helen as Marvin's partner so as to entitle her to half of his assets?

This is how the judge ruled: No! The judge held that to have a partnership, each party must contribute something to the partnership. In this case, concluded the judge, Helen's only possible contribution was her living with Marvin illegally. And an illegal contribution is no contribution. (Based upon a 1965 Florida District Court of Appeals Decision)

College Boy Prefers to Live in Tent

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — David Hoover is one University of Michigan student who's not worried about the campus housing shortage.

He's planning to camp out in the woods near Ann Arbor all winter.

The 18-year-old freshman told university housing officials he finds "more security in the woods than in an apartment," adding, "I really like to live with the weather."

Hoover, a lean 5-foot-10, has four tents with an overhead tarpaulin connecting them. The tents are clustered around a fire pit. He may experiment with various types of mechanical heaters when the winter snows arrive.

In anticipation of a blustery winter, he brought snowshoes with him.

Hoover's campsite, set up last week, is in a dense woods a quarter of a mile from the nearest point to which a car or bicycle can drive.

"I just hope a lot of other students don't get the idea," said Hoover, whose father is an Illinois assistant attorney general. "People would say I was starting a new kind of hippie movement."

He rejected several offers of potential campsites nearer to his classes. "This feels like home," he said. "I don't believe the cold could drive me in. I'll move into town if I think my grades are suffering."

Price-Setting Time Running Out on Chrysler

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp., hit by dwindling profits and sales, is up to bat in the 1970 car pricing game.

Unlike last year when it was the first to release price increases, and then had to roll them back, Chrysler has waited until General Motors Corp., and Ford Motor Co. announced their price hikes. Chrysler must move within the next few days, since new models go on sale Tuesday.

There are strong indications that Chrysler is ready to keep its prices down to strengthen its position.

GM, whose cars go on sale today, announced an average retail price hike of $125 per car, while Ford placed its at $108. Ford's 1970 cars go on sale Friday.

American Motors begins new model sales next Thursday. American traditionally does not announce its prices until a day or two before the sales begin and presumably will look at its three competitors' lists before finalizing prices.

Among the four U.S. automakers, Chrysler's domestic share of the market so far this year is 17 per cent, compared to 18 per cent a year ago. Ford's market share increased from 26.9 per cent in 1968 to 27.5 per cent this year.

General Motors also increased its market share during the year from 51.9 per cent to 52.4 per cent. American Motors share was about 3 per cent both years.

Industry sales as a whole are off from a year earlier and only Ford has registered a slight gain, thanks to high sales of the Maverick, which didn't exist in 1968. The 1970 Maverick will remain priced at $1,995.

Last year's GM price increase was $52, Ford $50 and Chrysler $55 after a rollback from $89 to compete with its rivals.

Chrysler reported a drop in profits of 51 per cent for the first six months of 1969 compared to the same period in 1968.

Task Force Sets Up Post-Apollo Program

WASHINGTON (AP) - The White House disclosed Wednesday presidential task force recommendation that the United States embark on a post-Apollo space program featuring shuttle rockets to space, an orbiting space platform and putting a man on Mars early in the 1980s.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, speaking for himself and three other members of the special group, said peak spending for the program advocated by the panel would reach about $8 billion a year as the Mars landing approached.

The task force proposed three programs to Nixon.

One would defer any effort to put men on Mars until after 1990 and another would place emphasis on further moon pioneering with the result that any effort to reach Mars would be put off until the mid-1980s.

Library School Accredited

COLUMBIA - The School of Library and Informational Science at the University of Missouri-Columbia is now accredited by the American Library Association.

Dr. Ralph H. Parker, dean of the School, noted in making the announcement that the school -- having graduated only one class previous to this year -- is receiving accreditation in the minimum possible time. It is now among 42 U. S. and five Canadian schools accredited by the ALA.

The School was founded here in 1966, absorbing a department of library science founded in the College of Arts and Science in 1950 and granting only a bachelor of arts degree. The master of arts degree in library science was initiated in 1967 Twenty-one received degrees in 1968; 35 in 1969. Since accreditation is retroactive for one year, the accreditation applies to all graduates of this School.

Basis for ALA accreditation, Dr. Parker expiains, includes quality of faculty and of general education in the university; criteria for admission of library students, library resources, financial support, quarters and equipment for the school. A site visitation team interviewed UMC faculty, University officials, and library students, checking student credentials and records; visited classes of every library teacher and looked over courses and syllabi.

Graduation from an accredited school is required by many libraries, by some states for certification, Dr. Parker says, and brings a higher U. S. Civil Service rating.

In the School of Library and Informational Science here, Dr. Parker points out, "we consider any source of information in the domain of the library. We believe form should not be the basis for artificial fragmentation of information materials."

The School attempts to prepare students for the expected greater specialization of future libraries. Ten or more will be added to the present staff of eight to support the many special areas in the library field offered here.

Enrollment for 1968-69 was 73 graduate students, with 47 fulltime.

The Prayer from The Upper Room

The Spirit helps us in our weakness; for we do not know how to pray as we ought, but the Spirit himself intercedes for us with sighs too deep for words. (Romans 8:26, RSV)

PRAYER: Father, it is a real privilege that we can talk to Thee. Help us this day to keep close contact with the Holy Spirit as He speaks to us. May our intimacy be real as we devote time to prayer and communion with Thee. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Thieu Says Call For Immediate Ceasefire Risky

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu rejected today as "not realistic" any proposal for an immediate ceasefire as the first step toward a Vietnam peace settlement. Such a plan could lead to another Korea, he said.

Thieu also declared that the withdrawal of 60,000 U.S. troops from South Vietnam this year was based solely on judgments that South Vietnamese forces could take over that much more of the fighting task.

He added that in the future, additional troop pullouts will be based on two other criteria agreed upon by himself and President Nixon—the level of enemy battlefield activity and progress in the Paris peace talks.

"That is a promise of the U.S. government toward the Vietnamese government," Thieu said.

Third Cairo Official Quits

CAIRO, Ill. (AP) — Racially tense Cairo lost its third top official Thursday with the resignation of W. C. Spomer as corporation counsel.

Spomer said he offered his resignation "because I was appointed by Mayor Stenzel—who I think did a good job— and I thought his successor should have the right to appoint his own attorney."

Stenzel and Police Chief William Petersen resigned Monday.

The city is facing a lawsuit filed in federal court in Danville by the United Front, a black organization. Spomer said a St. Louis law firm was expected to represent the city.
